NIXON: Total Withdrawal Our Goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said Friday night American Armed Forces will stay in Southeast Asia until the last U.S. war prisoner is freed and the South Vietnamese develop "at least a chance" to defend themselves.

But Nixon said he envisioned no permanent Korean-style residual armed force for Vietnam.

"Our goal ... is a total withdrawal," he said in an hour-long interview with six newsmen before members and guests of the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE.)

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, has not ruled out another invasion of Laos by the South Vietnamese. Story page 14.

Nixon denied he had set a deadline for total withdrawal from Vietnam by the 1972 presidential election. But he said he would announce further troop withdrawals this fall. A new 100,000-man reduction of U.S. forces will be conducted from May 1 to Dec. 1, reducing American troop strength in the war zone to 184,000.

The President defended his decision releasing Lt. William L. Calley Jr., convicted of the murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians, from the Ft. Benning, Ga., stockade, and announcing he was taking over final review of the case. He had been accused by the Army prosecutor of responding to "public clamor" and eroding the military justice system by his action.

Nixon said he felt it was necessary to quiet fears expressed by the public in the Calley case and that his actions had caused the fears to subside. He said he also believed he should "not pass the buck" for review of the case to the Secretary of the Army.

Nixon said he believed it was "too early" to talk about the United States recognizing Communist China or supporting its admission to the United Nations, despite the recent thaw in Sino-American relations. He said he hoped relaxation of U.S. trade and travel restrictions with China "will lead to other moves in time."

On Southeast Asia, Nixon said it would be necessary for the United States to retain air power and some residual forces there.

"We do not have as a goal a permanent residual force such as we have in Korea at the present time," Nixon said. "But it will be necessary for us to maintain forces in South Vietnam until two important objectives are achieved."

He said the objectives were the release of American war prisoners and the ability of the South Vietnamese "to develop the capacity to defend themselves against a Communist takeover, not the sure capacity, but at least a chance."

As far as the prisoners are concerned, Nixon said, "we have some cards to play ... going to retain that force until we get it, and I think it will work in the end."

Nixon also:

—Predicted 1971 will be a good economic year and 1972 a very good year and said he planned no changes in the administration economic "game plan."

— Said he expected no changes in American policy toward Cuba "until Cuba changes its policy toward us."

—Commented his administration does not "particularly approve" of the "Communist leaning" government of Chile but that Chile's internal affairs are "their business."

J. EDGAR HOOVER

HOOVER: Tribute ... But, No Firm Commitment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embattled FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has won a strong defense and a glowing tribute from President Nixon but not a firm commitment he will be kept on the job.

Labeling many of the criticisms of Hoover as "unfair and malicious," the President said at a news conference Friday night: "He's taking a bad rap on a lot of things and he doesn't deserve it."

But invited by a questioning newsmen to pledge to retain Hoover as head of the FBI, Nixon said: "I'm not going to discuss the situation with regard to Mr. Hoover's tenure in office when the matter has not been raised by him or by me."

In any event, Nixon said, "It would be most unfortunate to allow a man after 50 years service to go out under a cloud, maligned."

While defending Hoover against attack, the President also defended his own intervention into the case of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, and the administration's "game plan" for the economy.

Nixon said he ordered Calley released from confinement and promised to pass final judgment on the convicted slayer of 22 Vietnamese civilians in order to quiet fears of stirred-up Americans.

"Since that action," he said, "we have seen the fears with regard to the Calley case subside because they know that he is going to get a fair review and a final review by the President of the United States."

"I will not pass the buck to a commission or to the secretary of the Army."

As for the administration's economic policies, Nixon cited improvements in production and rising sales and stock prices as indications of a rebound.

"I think there will be a strong 1971, in the second half particularly, and a very strong 1972," he said.

Reinforcing earlier White House statements that no drastic new stimulating moves, such as a tax cut, are necessary, the President said: "I do not think we should change the plan now."

Hoover's status and some congressional criticism of FBI tactics commanded considerable attention at the news conference. Earlier in the day Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, a potential Democratic presidential candidate, renewed his charge that the FBI spied on antipollution rallies and said the activities "smacked of political surveillance."

Traveling in New Hampshire, Muskie demanded the administration make public the FBI's report on 40 to 60 Earth Day rallies last year.

In Hillsdale, Mich., Assistant GOP Senate Leader Robert P. Griffin told a Republican group he had it "on high authority" that FBI agents were present at no more than four Earth Day rallies.

Speaking of attacks on the FBI, Griffin said: "Now if that's not 'McCarthyism' or 'McCarthyism' in reverse, I don't know what it is."

Nixon followed up. "Despite all of the talk about surveillance and bugging and the rest," he declared, "let me say I have been in police states and the idea that this is a police state is just pure nonsense."

Asked if there is any truth to complaints by some congressmen that they are under FBI surveillance, the President said he had checked personally and could give assurance no telephone in the Capitol has ever been tapped by the FBI.

Over the past two years, he said, there were only 300 taps nationwide by the FBI through court orders and, in addition, less than 50 a year without a judge's approval. They led to 900 arrests and 100 convictions.

"Let's also remember that the President of the United States has a responsibility for the security of this country and a responsibility to protect the innocents from those who might engage in crime or who would be dangerous to the people of this country," Nixon added.

"In carrying out that responsibility, I defend the FBI in this very limited exercise of tapping."

what he thinks and he says it very hard.

"As a matter of fact, I believe that some of his criticisms ... you really cannot quarrel with them if you examine the whole record," Nixon said.

"I believe that the vice president's national image of simply being a man who is against a free press, who is against all the press, is just not accurate."

frequent criticism of the news media has been successful, whether the press has reacted in a positive way, Nixon replied:

"I suppose that is the dilemma, isn't it, of anyone who dares to criticize the press or the television, that if he does he is probably going to get worse treatment than he thought he was getting before ..."

He agreed Agnew is a controversial politician. "He says

AGNEW: Defended by the President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's criticism of the press seems justified, President Nixon has told the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Agnew makes effective speeches on behalf of administration policies, Nixon said. And where do they get?

"They get two sticks back with the corset ads. They never get up there in the front page."

Nixon offered the defense of his vice president when asked during a news conference at the ASNE convention Friday night whether Agnew is better as a vice president or as an editor.

"You mean you are looking for an editor?" Nixon shot back.

"I am going to make an offer to these distinguished publishers, editors and so forth that are here," the President said.

About New Assessor Law

Woodstock Takes Sides

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK — "In the last 10 years," says John G. Reynolds, director of the Ulster County Tax Service Agency, "taxes have increased 150 per cent." Reynolds also notes that, in the same time, school taxes have increased 264 per cent in this area, and special district taxes (fire, water) show a 97 per cent increase.

Figures like those, says Reynolds, have gotten "people up in arms today" about their assessments.

For that reason, Woodstockers are expected to turn out in large numbers for an "unofficial" public hearing next Tuesday, April 20, following the art colony's regular monthly Town Board meeting at 8 p.m. Up for discussion will be whether Woodstock should retain its present practice of electing three assessors, or switch to the single assessor system.

A Pulse Feeler
Tuesday's hearing has been arranged by the board in an effort to "feel the pulse" of the public on whether a local law should be adopted in the wake of the Assessment Improvement Bill passed last year in Albany.

That law takes effect next Oct. 1; permits town boards to appoint one assessor for a six year term.

But the new state law also allows a town, if it wishes, to retain the past system of electing assessors on the condition that a local law is passed to that effect by the last day of this month, with a mandatory referendum or special election by July 1. However, if the public referendum results in a voters' decision to keep the three elected assessors, (with non minimum qualifications required), a town cannot in the future establish the office of a single, qualified assessor.

With less than two weeks remaining between Tuesday's hearing and the end of April deadline, time is short for resolving the issue in Woodstock. Most observers feel that the town is pretty evenly divided on the subject, even though both the New York Assessors Association and the Ulster County Assessors Association support the new bill.

Woodstock's present Board of Assessors has recommended that a single assessor should be appointed for the coming year. And the spokesmen for the Democratic Party are expected to come out in favor of an appointed "professional assessor" at Tuesday's hearing.

They'd Pick Sahr

Apparently, several local groups already have a man in mind for the job. There are rumors that Frank Sahr, a Bearsview resident who is currently performing professional assessor duties for the Town of Tuxedo, has the support of Democrats, the membership of the Woodstock Independent Party and the Zena Homeowners Association, and — perhaps — some Republican Party leaders.

On the other hand, Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association favors retention of the present three-man assessor setup. But, whether the election of assessors is continued or not, WTTA feels that the voters should decide the issue. With the deadline for setting a public referendum looming on the calendar, WTTA president Walter Schulman will represent his organization at Tuesday's hearing; urge that a local law be adopted immediately and a special election held.

While Tuesday's hearing is not required by law and is billed "unofficial," it is aimed at giving the Town Board some insight into how strongly Woodstockers feel about electing their own part-time assessors or leaving it up to the town fathers to appoint a single, full-time man.

Urge Large Attendance

For that reason, all local organizations interested in the matter are urging a large attendance at the hearing April 20 and hoping that many will come out to express their views. They point out that if only a few turn out, the Town Board will assume no one really cares one way or the other about assessments.

On the other hand, some Woodstockers feel that by waiting until the zero hour to hold an "unofficial" hearing, the board has subtly indicated it has little stomach for a referendum; would rather exert its right to appoint its own assessor.

Meanwhile, John Reynolds of the County Tax Agency, still feels Ulsterites do care very much. While he says he takes no side on the two options possible, he does say that we've had "weaknesses, breakdowns and failures in assessment in New York." And he also says: "In the average case, a county tax map would help bring in a bigger assessment for Woodstock and other towns, regardless of whether they choose one assessor or three."

CHIEF RILEY

Vote Machines Delivered to Wawarsing Town

WAWARSING

Town of Wawarsing Supervisor Frank W. Harkin announced that five voting machines were delivered to the town Wednesday morning, and are now stored in the Napanoch Firehouse.

The machines are replacements for the four machines the town lost in a fire in the firehouse last Christmas.

Harkin said the insurance allowance of $1,100 per destroyed machine defrayed a good part of the expense of the new ones. According to Town Clerk Kenneth Mitchell the new machines cost $1887 each, f.o.b. Ellenville. The machines were supplied by the Automatic Voting Machine Co. of Jamestown.

Harkin said he has directed the town custodians to salvage as many parts of the old machines as possible so that one machine can be assembled. He intends to present the assembled machine to Ellenville High School for instructional purposes. Harkin said in view of the strong possibility of 18-year-olds being granted the franchise, such a machine could prove very useful.

Announce Funeral Services For Saugerties Chief Riley

SAUGERTIES — Funeral services for Police Chief Charles Parker Riley Sr. will be held from the Seamon Funeral Home Inc., corner of John and Lafayette Streets, Saugerties, Sunday at 2 p.m.

Riley, who died Friday, was a policeman or constable for the Town of Saugerties for 24 years, and served as chief for 18. He served as chief of the town constabulary, and when the town assumed first class status in 1969 and set up a town police force he became its first chief.

He was a charter and life member and past chief of the Centerville Fire Company, and organized Centerville Boy Scout Troop No. 31. He was a former member of the New York State Conservation Department.

Riley was in charge of the maintenance of Cantine Memorial Field and the town's recreation park in the village. Born Oct. 22, 1904 in Sauger-

Onteora Lions' Recycling

WOODSTOCK — The Ecology Committee of the Onteora Lions Club will receive glass bottles and seamless aluminum soft drink and beer cans in its second recycling collection on Sunday, between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., at the Bradley Meadow Shopping Center. "This is a pilot program," Committee Chairman Ken Osterhout explained, "through which Onteora Lions can gain experience to make an effective contribution toward improving our environment by recycling bottles and cans.

"We address our efforts to everyone in the Woodstock area who is concerned about our environment. You can help with as little as an empty coke bottle or two, or a few beer bottles."

The first collection on April 3 produced 1,000 usable cans and bottles and provided valuable experience to Chairman Osterhout and Committeemen Alan F. Simmons and Roy Hoffman. They found most contributions were received in a two-hour interval. They also decided to schedule their next collection on a Sunday at a time and place convenient to church-goers.

The recycling "depot" will be set up outside the Rondout National Bank, where contributions will be sorted and processed. Hoffman is providing a truck.

Committeemen Simmons asked: "Please don't bring ketchup bottles, pickle and mustard jars or glass containers for orange and grapefruit juice or apple cider."

The Coca Cola Corp. in Poughkeepsie will pay Onteora Lions a few pennies per pound for usable reclaimed materials. "The proceeds will be used to further the efforts of our Ecology Committee," Osterhout explained.

Fire Destroys Pair of Barns

ULSTER HEIGHTS

Two large barns containing hay and farm equipment were burned to the ground Friday afternoon.

A fire was first reported in a three-story barn measuring 40 by 100 feet. Sparks from that blaze ignited a second fire in a smaller, two-story adjacent barn.

Three pieces of equipment from the Ellenville Fire Department battled the flames, under the direction of Chief Robert Maddon. Both structures were totally destroyed. No cause has been listed.

One of the barns housed six horses, which were rescued by the owner, John Graffeo, and firefighters.

The structures were located on Marcus Road in Ulster Heights.

Will Parole Robber

LONDON (UPI)—Roger Cordery, who has served half a 14-year sentence for his part in the 1963 Great Train Robbery, will be paroled from Coldingley maximum security prison today, prison sources said.

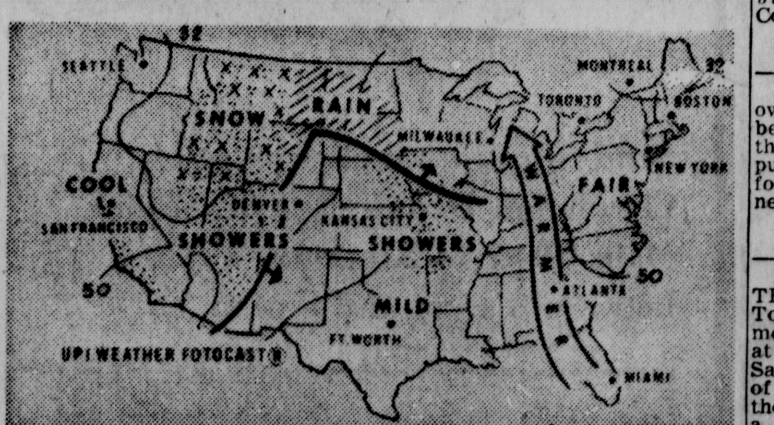

The 48-year-old Cordery, the first of the gang to be released, was given a 20-year sentence when brought to trial in April, 1964. He pleaded guilty to receiving more than $336,000 from the famous $7.3 million robbery from the Glasgow-to-London mail train.

Kingston State Police today and charged with second degree reckless endangerment on a complaint charging him with brandishing a double barrel shotgun in the vicinity of Schneider's Hotel in Glenrie.

Delamater was committed to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $750 bail after a hearing before Town of Saugerties Justice Michael A. Catalinotte. He is scheduled for preliminary hearing at a later date.

Man Critical After Accident

WOODSTOCK — State police are withholding the name of an Ulster County man who was critically injured early this morning in a one-car crash on the Saugerties-Woodstock Road.

The man was discovered at 4:30 a.m. by Lake Katrine troopers, pinned inside the wreckage of his car.

The man sustained multiple fractures, facial injuries and lacerations and was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance. State police said his condition this morning was critical.

Police said they are withholding the man's name until they can locate and notify his nearest relative.

Complete details of the accident are not available, although troopers said that the car apparently ran off the road and struck a tree. The accident occurred about one and a half miles south of the Woodstock Road. Police did not know how long the man had been pinned inside the wreckage.

Boating Course Set at School

KINGSTON — A five-week course on boating safety for youngsters 10-14 years old will be offered again this year by Flotilla 10-12 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary.

The course will begin Monday at 7 p.m. at the Clifford Miller School in Lake Katrine and will be held on consecutive Monday's until completed. Youngsters completing the course will be legally permitted to operate a motor boat on New York State waterways.

The Auxiliary courses are taught by experienced boatmen, who have been trained and licensed to grant the New York State Junior Certificate.

Boating is a family sport, said an Auxiliary spokesman, and the group believes that children should be properly trained in water safety. Charles and Robert Kohl of Furnace Street will be in charge of this year's sessions.

Further information regarding the classes may be obtained by contacting the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary at Dwyer's Boat Basin, Abeel Street.

Another highlight of the week is the receipt of a large number of new books for borrowing by

Driver Injured, Avoided Deer

RHINEBECK

Charles W. McDonald, 57, of Rhinebeck sustained facial lacerations when his car overturned after swerving to avoid a deer on Route 199 near the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge early today, according to Rhinebeck troopers.

McDonald was traveling east on the bridge approach, near River Road in the Town of Rhinebeck, when he swerved to avoid the animal. His car went off the left side of the highway, struck an embankment, reentered the road and overturned.

Probation Violation

Ellenville State Police Friday afternoon arrested Donald Bittner, 18, of Whitefield Road, Accord and charged the youth with violation of probation. Bittner was arraigned before Town of Rochester Justice Harold Lipton and committed to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail. A court hearing has been set for Wednesday.

Five Charged With Burglary Released on Bail

CATSKILL

Five Long Island teenagers, arrested Wednesday and charged with burglary in Haines Falls, were released on $200 bail each after a court hearing before Town of Catskill Justice George Carl Friday night.

Leeds state police reported that the five are scheduled to reappear in court May 28.

Charged with third degree burglary were Robert Marro, 17; Robert Smutney, 18; and Glen Amore, 17, all of Albertson; Steven Scheiner, 16, of Roslyn Heights and Daniel McHugh, 17, of Williston Park.

Temple Men To Hear Mayor

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig will be the guest speaker for the annual Temple Emanuel Brotherhood event Sunday morning, April 18, starting at 10 o'clock.

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, in announcing Sunday's program, said there would be no charge for Brotherhood members at this annual paid-up membership bagels and lox brunch.

The Temple's Men's Club this year has the largest membership in its history with more than 100 on the rolls. All Brotherhood members and prospective members are invited.

The world is spreading fast among National League batters: Two of the big guns are back.

The guns are Tom Seaver of the New York Mets and Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants, both of whom slumped off last season after superb performances the previous year.

Seaver, who won 25 games in 1968 and captured a National League Cy Young Award honors after leading the Mets to a world championship, fell to 18-12 last season and was particularly ineffective through the last half of the year.

But Friday he throttled Pittsburgh on three singles and ran his scoreless streak to 20 innings as the Mets edged the Pirates 1-0. Seaver, now 2-0, struck out 14 batters and walked none and got his support from Donn Clendenon's fourth-inning home run.

Marichal, who slipped to 12-10 last season after winning 21 games the previous year, hurried no-hit ball to eighth inning and finished with a two-hit shutout as the Giants ripped the Chicago Cubs 9-0. It was the Dominican right-hander's third victory without a defeat this season.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles downed Houston 6-5 in 10 innings. Atlanta nipped Philadelphia 8-1. St. Louis defeated San Diego 7-1 and the Cincinnati-Montreal game was snowed out.

"Tom Seaver is going to be Tom Seaver—the best pitcher in the National League—the best in baseball," said Mets' Manager Gil Hodges. "When he goes out there your chances are better than average to win."

"I can't pitch a better ball game than this, especially against a team like the Pirates," said Seaver. "That's the type of game I want to pitch."

Marichal retired 24 of the had 25 n-tters to face him and had his no-hit bid spoiled when Ken Rudolph led off the ninth with a clean single. Pinch-hitter Jim Hickman followed with another base hit before Marichal retired the side. The hits were the first of the season for Rudolph and Hickman.

Dick Dietz had a three-run homer and George Foster added a solo home run off loser Ferguson Jenkins to highlight the San Francisco offensive.

Bob Gibson pitched a seven-inning shutout, striking out seven batters and drove in three runs, two with a home run, as the Cardinals ripped San Diego. Gibson struck out eight in beating the Padres for the seventh time without a loss. He omered in the second after Luis Melendez singled and singled home Ted Sizemore for the Cardinals' final run.

Bill Buckner's two-out single in the 10th inning scored Richie Allen with the winning run and gave the Dodgers their victory over the Astros. Buckner's hit came after Allen walked and moved to second on Steve Garvey's single.

Rookie Earl Williams had a run during a seven-run inning that boosted the Braves' 10-3 Philadelphia. Williams singled in the first and last runs of the rally as the Braves routed Phillie starter Jim Bunning.

Wilt Chamberlain for the first time in the series to spark the Bucks' triumph. Chamberlain picked up three fouls in the first 9:34 of the game in a futile attempt to stop Alcindor.

Reserve forward Bob Boozer also was instrumental in the victory as he scored nine points in the third quarter to help the Bucks break the game open.

Los Angeles got to within one point early in the third period, but the Bucks then outscored the Lakers 24-7 to take a commanding 92-74 lead after three periods.

Gail Goodrich paced the Lakers with 26 points while Chamberlain was held to 15. Bob Dandridge added 20 points

A familiar pattern is developing in the American League. The Baltimore Orioles again appear to be unbeatable and the Chicago White Sox still are unbearable.

The Orioles, who have won two successive AL pennants, captured their seventh victory in eight starts Friday night by beating the New York Yankees 6-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Pat Dobson. The victory boosted the Orioles' lead in the Eastern Division to three games already.

dedication that he will join Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer as a big winner. Dobson who came to the Orioles from San Diego in an off-season trade, gave up a homer to Bobby Murcer in the fourth inning but did not allow another Yankee runner to reach second base.

Meanwhile, Dobson's teammates built him a comfortable cushion with a three-run sixth inning rally. Dave Johnson's score-riding double triggered the outburst and Johnson also singled home a run in the loss in nine games. Gary Peters went 8 1-3 innings to gain his first victory of the season while Joe Niekro suffered his third loss. Ike Brown homered for the Tigers.

Sandy Alomar's two-out triple drove in two runs and triggered a three-run eighth inning as the Angels rallied from behind to defeat the Twins. Jim Perry was working on a one-hitter until the Angels' eighth inning when he tagged him with his second loss in three decisions.

WASHINGTON (UPI). —William D. Eckert, the baseball commissioner who was billed derisively as "the unknown soldier" during his three-year tenure, died Friday of an apparent heart attack while playing tennis in the Bahamas.

Eckert, who was 62, served as baseball commissioner from Nov. 17, 1965 to Dec. 6, 1968 before being fired by club owners. A retired lieutenant general in the Air Force, Eckert was a stunning surprise choice as commissioner in 1965, prompting the quip, "they've elected the unknown soldier" when questions about the new electee arose.

He was replaced by the present commissioner Bowie Kuhn, following his ouster in San Francisco in 1968.

Eckert, born in January, 1909, at Freeport, Ill., and was a 1930 graduate of West Point. He held a master's degree from the Harvard School of Business Administration and was commander of the 432nd Bomb Group in Europe at the end of World War II. He held the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Merit with two oak leaf clusters.

Eckert was signed originally to a seven-year contract but was forced to submit his retirement by owners after only

NEW YORK (UPI)—There may yet be another book coming out criticizing modern sports.

This one could come from 27-year-old George Sauer, the wide-receiver of the New York Jets who told the former pro football champions Friday that he was quitting.

Sauer, who was signed by his father to a Jet contract in 1965, although as a Texas student he still had a "red shirt" year of eligibility left, intimated to his father that he might be ready to pursue a writing career.

The ex-Jet, who starred in the memorable 16-7 victory of the New Yorkers over the Baltimore Colts in the 1969 Super Bowl, said in his phone call to general manager and coach Weeb Ewbank that he has "thoughts on football as a sport and what it means in our society...I like football but I

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 17, 1971

Historic Meeting

Mindful of the great honor to the citizens of the City of Kingston and the County of Ulster in being privileged to be host to the New York State Senate for a regular session at the Senate House here on Tuesday, April 20, we extend a most cordial welcome to that august body. This will be the first time the Senate has met outside Albany since the 18th century.

At the historic meeting here, there will be a complete session with debate on bills and with actual voting procedures. The calendar for the first time in history will contain on its cover the picture of the Senate House along with scores of bills that will be considered that day. Senator Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges will address the 57 Senators and guests here.

Upon organization of the State Government here on September 10, 1777, the first Senate held its regular sessions here until the meetings were broken up by the approach of the enemy. On October 16, 1777, the structure was reduced to naked walls. Soon after the Revolution it was restored.

The cradle of New York State, the legislative, the executive and the judicial were launched together here. Fifteen Senators representing the 10 original New York Counties met in Kingston January 20, 1799 to celebrate the 182nd anniversary of the first Senate session in this city. The Senators convened in the same Senate House room where Governor George Clinton presided over the first session. This was one of the major events observed here during the Hudson-Champlain celebration.

George Clinton, the first Governor of the State of New York, took the oath of office here in front of the court house on Wall Street which then was the State Capital. He is buried in the churchyard of the old Dutch Church.

Natives of Kingston and Ulster County have inherited a glorious birthright. This notable event unfolding our early history will serve as a further reminder how steeped in history is this community with its glorious achievement behind it.

Some people naively suppose that their lives can be lived entirely in the context of the present and that commemorating what went before is simply a waste of time. It would be difficult to think of anything that is less true. We all should strive to be acquainted with the lives and achievements of our ancestors. For whether we like it or not, we are all children of history.

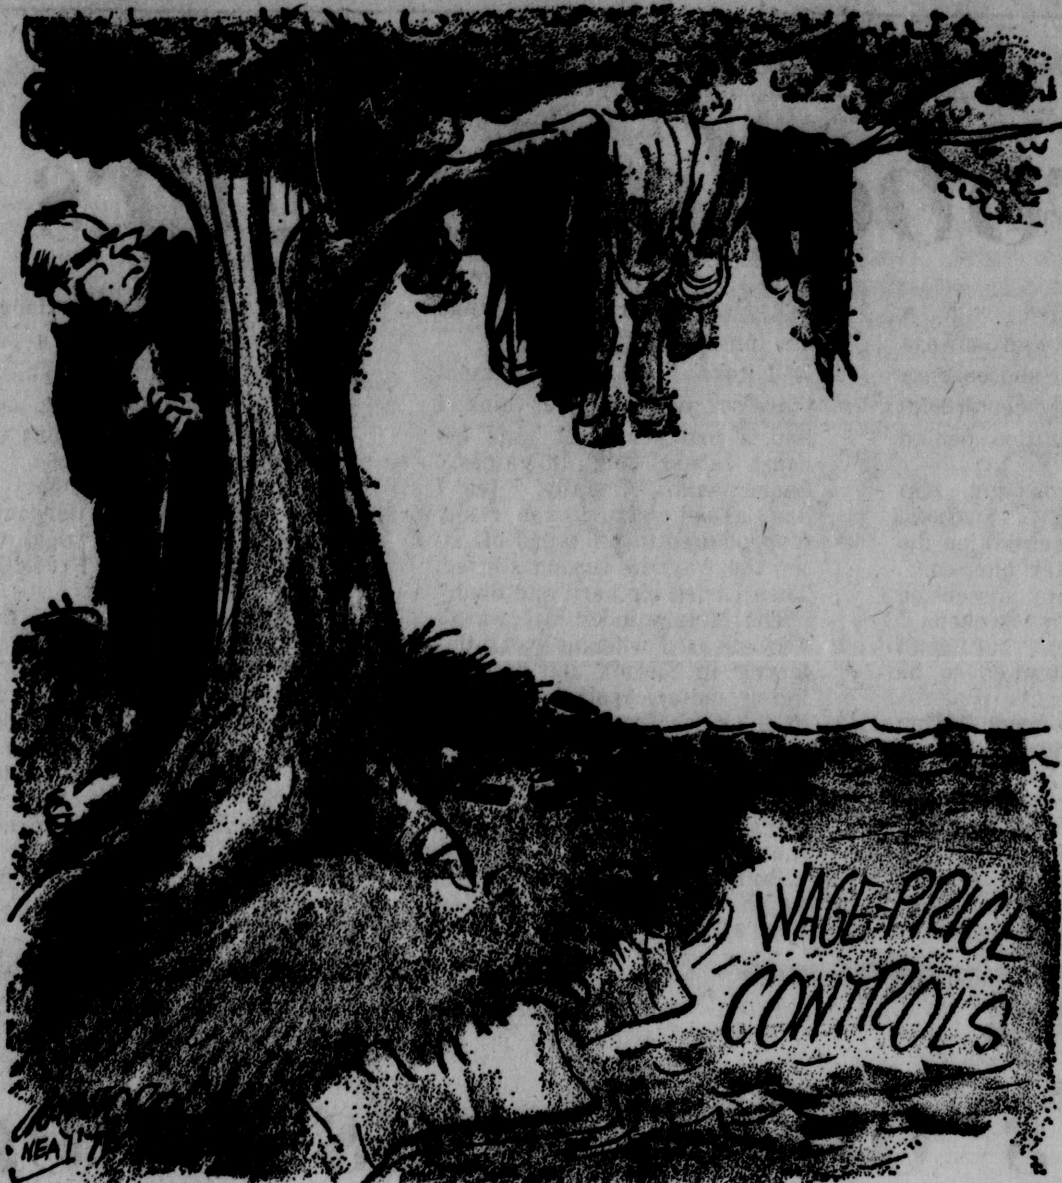

The session here on Tuesday of the New York State Senate helps preserve notable events of the past, from being lost. If it were not for such occasions, a real sense of much of our history would be denied future generations.

We are all children of history and knowledge of the roots from which we grow is important. To enrich one's store of such knowledge is to enrich one's whole life.

We cannot live our lives entirely in the context of the present. The hand of the past can be seen at work in all that we do. It motivates us in many subtle ways; it colors our thoughts and aspirations. We cannot escape the effects of the past on our present lives. That is why the New York State Senate meeting here is so important to all of us.

Henry J. Taylor Says Israelis' Stand on Jerusalem

United Nations Middle East mediator Gunnar V. Jarring is dead right and the Israeli government dead wrong in regard to internationalizing Israel-held Jerusalem. Moreover, the Israeli government, is repeating its stand, is just being plain stupid.

Dr. Jarring correctly bases his insistence on the U.N. General Assembly resolutions of November, 1947, April, 1948, and December, 1949, and the U.N. Trusteeship Council's unanimously adopted Geneva statutes of April, 1950, all of which demand an international Jerusalem.

Israel's aggregate record already vastly weakens her diplomatically. In the 1948 Palestine war Israel increased her territory by 3,000 miles more than the U.N. resolution of November 29, 1947, gave her. Then in the 1956 Suez crisis, when Britain and France lost out, only Israel achieved its objectives. Next, in Israel's 1967 "blitz" victory she seized (and still holds) the Sharm el Sheikh territory above the Tiran Strait, Syria's Golan Heights, the Gaza Strip and Sinai Peninsula, much Jordanian territory and, ultimately, Jerusalem itself.

All that compounds Israel's stupidity regarding Jerusalem — a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate good faith to the world.

It is one thing, and absolutely essential, for Israel to insist on retaining strategic points like Sharm el Sheikh, the Golan Heights, which is not an Israeli defense line instead of a Syrian attack line, etc. But Israel tragically contaminates her entire position by unjustifiable refusals manifestly detached from her basic security needs. Israel has already alienated worldwide millions by appearing to refuse to take back Arabs she evicted. These now exceed 2 1/2 million. At least an appalling million evictees date from the 1948 Palestine war — 23 years ago. And 150,000 more poured into Jordan when Gen. Moshe Dayan's 1967 "blitz" troops mopped up the Jordan River's west bank.

These pitiable wretches, life-sustained in refugee camps mostly by U.S. Government aid, are the victims of three wars and may well be the cause of another. For yesterday's evictees are today's guerrillas. And they will retain their strength as long as they feel Israel deprives them of their birthright. In addition, at the humane level, Israel is widely condemned for refusing to share the Jordan River water.

All this is a terrible backdrop for the Jewish state's adamant refusal to negotiate regarding Israel-held Jerusalem. Nor is Premier Golda Meir persuasive in contending that "for 20 years Jews were prevented from visiting the Holy City." The Israel-Jordan state of war was responsible for that and, further, the excuse is irrelevant to the problem.

In Jerusalem the continuum of life and time stretches back, of course, 3,000 years or more. The Holy City is equally sacred to Judaism, Christianity and Islam — to cite them in the sequence of their appearance on the world scene. It was the city for David, Solomon, Cyrus, Alexander, Hadrian, Mohammed, the many Sultans. Its undulating story is the story of mankind, full of aspirations, triumph, suspense, tragedy and treachery.

In the nearby Dead Sea area, mother of the Dead Sea Scrolls, the Masada fortress ruins are still visible. Built by Jonathan Maccabees, the fortress was later used by Eleazer and his zealots in their 73 B.C. last stand against Rome's military-industrial-political complex. This tiny band resisted as long as possible. Then the band committed itself to a suicidal holocaust.

Included in the fateful siege, however, was the Procurator of Judea who secretly stimulated political factionalism. And to this day the Arab world asks: When has peril been without some kind of profiteers?

When on May 14, 1948, the Republic of Israel proclaimed itself and the United States officially recognized the new country literally overnight, the Israelis swore up and down to the United States and to the world that the new Jewish state would never encroach on international Jerusalem. To propagate this required promise Israel called Tel Aviv her "forever" capital and helped quiet world alarm that way.

Now Israel confirms all suspicions by many Christian, Islamic and other religious elements throughout the world and alienates them by an apparent pattern of "what I can take is mine, if it is to my profit."

Surrounded, back-to-the-wall, brave little Israel could not conceivably think up a better way to play into the hands of her enemies than by her arrogance and stupidity about Jerusalem.

U.S. Spends Enormous Sums for Aged, Ill and Infirm

BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Just a few years ago the federal government pushed its budget past $100 billion, and many Americans gasped. There is a very strong prospect that by 1975 it will be spending at least $103 billion a year for the country's aged, ill and infirm.

This estimate is based upon the assumption — a very real one at this moment — that Congress in the next year or so will adopt some kind of sweeping national health insurance program.

The present guesses are that in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1973, such a program would cost the federal government around $57 billion. If its effective beginning date were delayed, the first-year cost probably would be higher.

As for retirement, survivorship and disability payments, Social Security authorities estimate that by calendar year 1975 the government will be paying out benefits at a rate of $45.7 billion a year.

A couple of years ago, the then presidential aide Daniel Moynihan cautioned that large amounts of "free money" would not soon be on hand for loudly trumpeted "must projects" like rebuilding the cities. Not even a sizable Vietnam peace dividend would provide the resources, he said.

His reasons: The rising costs of helping the aged, including the health costs under Medicare, would soak up so much of any extra money produced either by lessened defense effort or a bigger economy.

Moynihan's forecast was viewed skeptically. Some aroused critics labeled it and similar predictions as alibis for inaction on the boiling urban front.

The fact is, Moynihan's judgments were conservative. He was not including the inevitably huge costs of a health insurance program widened to embrace all Americans, not simply the elderly.

Furthermore, he could have underscored his point dramatically by taking his projections a little farther into the future. The House Ways and Means Committee figures that by the year 2000, basic Social Security benefit payments will be around $75-80 billion a year. That guess, too, could prove conservative.

Because spiraling health costs have been so difficult to control, the experts feel less secure about forecasting what the federal government's total financial burden in this field will be in the decades beyond 1975. But if $57 billion is roughly accurate for fiscal 1974, then $90 billion a year by 2000 would be a fair guess.

Putting such an estimate together with the one for Social Security benefits, we get a projection of possibly $170 billion to be spent by the federal government in the year 2000 for health and Social Security alone.

That is more than twice what we are currently spending for defense.

If anyone imagines these estimates are in any way "scare figures," let him consult the authorities and their charts. He'll find the figures realistic.

Now, of course, by 1975 and again by 2000, the federal budget obviously will be a lot bigger overall than President Nixon's probably underestimated $229 billion for fiscal 1972. A larger economy, higher average earnings for individual Americans and higher prices all will help support budget levels of several hundred billion dollars.

Defense outlays, even if designed to fuel a much narrower world effort than we presently finance in Asia, Europe and elsewhere, surely will surpass considerably today's very large totals.

Jack Anderson Says How CIA Plotted to Blow Up Castro's Largest Oil Refinery

WASHINGTON — The full, fantastic story of the Bay of Pigs has been buried for 10 years deep in the Central Intelligence Agency's fortresslike headquarters near Langley, Va.

All the world knows that CIA-trained Cuban exiles stormed ashore on a Cuban beachhead and were cut to pieces by Dictator Fidel Castro's militiamen 10 years ago today. But the CIA has concealed from the world how it continued to send assassination teams and commando squads against Castro.

Bit by bit, stories of these post-invasion sorties are leaking out. We have already revealed, for example, how the CIA used a swashbuckling underworld figure, John Roselli, to make six unsuccessful assassination attempts upon Castro.

The CIA assigned two trusted agents, Bill Harvey and "Big Jim" O'Connell, to direct the murder missions. On the first two tries, Roselli's assassins sought to slip poison pellets into Castro's food. The next four attempts were made by sniper teams equipped with high powered Belgian rifles, explosives and two-way radios.

There were midnight powerboat dashes to secret landing spots on the Cuban coast and machinegun exchanges in the dark of night with Cuban patrol boats. The last assassination team actually reached a Havana rooftop within rifle range of Castro. But like the others, this squad also was caught and tortured.

Refinery Raid

Now we have learned of a CIA plot to blow up Cuba's most productive oil refinery. Painstaking preparations were made, and a commando team was given intensive training.

Using U-2 photos so detailed that they showed every bush, Maj. Edward Roderick, an Army engineer on loan to the CIA, constructed a mockup of the plant. He even figured out how mortars could be pre-aimed, then placed by commandos in a precise spot and fired on the run.

But he junked the idea because a human error of an inch or two could send a mortar shell into an inhabited area. Then the whole plan was junked after President Kennedy's assassination.

We have also learned that the CIA scattered $20 bills around like green confetti to finance the clandestine anti-Castro operations. Bales of money were delivered to Cuban exile leaders, who gave no accounting of how they spent it.

Some were stashed by men since killed. Other thousands were buried in former pirate lairs in the Florida Keys. Still more thousands were strewn on the beaches of Cuba where would-be raiders left their bones.

Yet some of the raiders survived. One of them, a young ex-Army captain named Bradley Ayers, has emerged from under cover. He has given us access to his notes, documents and draft chapters of a book he is writing about this raid for the CIA.

"The Cuban experience," he told us, "has been a plague on the national conscience as it has been on mine. I think it's high time that at least part of the story be told."

CIA Assignment

A former paratrooper, pilot and demolitions expert, Captain Ayers was training rangers at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., when he received orders to report to the Army's Special Activities Group in Washington.

He was put through physical, psychiatric and lie detector examinations for a week, then he was hustled over to the CIA's Cuban section.

He was questioned for three days by CIA officials who, finally satisfied, provided him with a cover story, phony documents and a ticket to Miami. He adopted the name Daniel B. Williams and was assigned to a CIA front called Paragon Air Service.

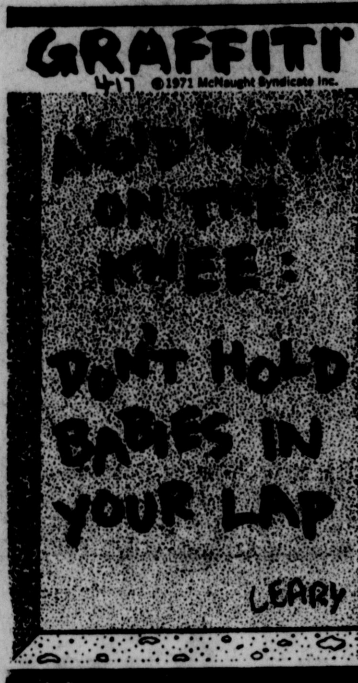

The CIA lodged Ayers and Roderick in a luxurious beach house in Key Biscayne. The two undercover Army men worked out of the CIA front — a columned building with the cover name of Zenith Technical Enterprises — on the south campus of Miami University.

Through its doors passed some of the nation's most secret operatives: the dapper John Roselli, rugged Bill Harvey, "Rip" Robertson and a huge New Mexican remembered only as "The Big Indian."

Ayers got the assignment of training a tough Cuban cadre in the swamps of the Everglades and the beaches of the Keys. He was supposed to teach them enough surf landing skill, underwater swimming, demolition, boat handling and simple survival for them to lead commandos into Cuba to blow up the multi-million-dollar refinery. The story of their night landing in Cuba and the great oil refinery fizzle will be told in a future column.

Capitol Conversation

From the Horse's Mouth — We have already reported that Attorney General John Mitchell will resign from the cabinet to run President Nixon's 1972 campaign, operating at first out of his former law office. Now insiders tell us the President is considering William Ruckelshaus, now the environmental czar, as Mitchell's replacement. During his appearance on the David Frost Show, Mitchell denied our report that Los Angeles Sheriff Peter Pitchess had been sounded out about taking J. Edgar Hoover's job. We got the story from a White House aide and confirmed it by talking to Pitchess himself. He acknowledged that he had been sounded out by Administration officials but said he didn't expect Hoover to leave. Another able lawman, whose name has been mentioned around the White House as Hoover's possible successor, is Customs Commissioner Myles Ambrose.

Red China Has Something In Mind Beyond Ping-Pong

RAY CROMELY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It all sounds light-hearted and trivial. But it would be a mistake to downgrade the importance of Red China's having invited an American table tennis team to the mainland.

The eight months this reporter spent at Mao Tse-tung's Red Chinese headquarters years ago provided convincing proof that no sport and no cultural activity is devoid of important political meaning, especially Ping-Pong.

This writer knows the national prestige Peking places on winning in this particular game. He knows of the strong exhortations given by Communist China's political authorities to table tennis team members before international matches. In the Peking lexicon, winning reflects glory on Mao's prestige.

A player who loses may face a struggle session to determine whether his thinking is strictly along Maoist lines or whether he has deviated.

So the Chinese have something in mind beyond table tennis.

Now Communist Chinese strategy for the past three decades has been never to take on two major enemies at one time. Mao repeatedly has made this clear. So has Lin Biao, his heir apparent.

The Russo-Chinese worldwide struggle continues with no sign of abatement. Russia and Red China are fighting behind the scenes along the whole of Red China's southern border. They may come to a confrontation in the Pakistan fighting.

With these things in mind, Mao cannot afford to have both Russia and the United States actively as enemies at the same time. Especially, Red China cannot afford to have the Soviet Union and the United States reach an agreement on arms and the Middle East, leaving Russia free to concentrate on Asia.

So it is essential now for Mao to seek some sort of opening with the Nixon administration. Some relationship is all the more necessary what with China's economy growing at a sluggish rate and the major sources of possible aid concentrated in the United States and its allies.

But what about ideology? What about the concentrated anti-American campaigns in Communist China over the years?

During the eight months this reporter (as an American Army officer in World War II) had daily dealings with the upper members of the Chinese Communist hierarchy, it was clear that when it came to their national interests Mao, Lin Piao and Chou En-lai did not let ideology get in their way.

War Still Viet Lot After U.S. Leaves

Some of us have so concentrated our thoughts and hopes on the idea of the final withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam that we can think of nothing beyond that.

The U.S. prisoners of war held in North Vietnam could be home by Christmas, says Sen. Vance Hartke, if President Nixon were to announce total withdrawal by the end of this year.

"The killing can end in a matter of days," says the Indiana Democrat.

Which killing? Certainly, the killing of Americans by North Vietnamese and of North Vietnamese by Americans could be ended at any time. But the killing of Vietnamese by Vietnamese was going on long before the first American soldier set foot in that country and will, unfortunately, be going on long after the last American soldier leaves.

The President has announced a slight stepup in the pace of withdrawal which if projected into 1972 will leave about 50,000 troops still in Vietnam at midyear. To all intents and purposes, American involvement in ground combat operations will likely have ceased well before that time.

This residual force, the President has indicated, will remain until Hanoi releases its American prisoners.

But neither the President nor even the advocates of absolute, complete U.S. disengagement from the war have said anything about when our advisory and support personnel and air power — especially air power — can be withdrawn. By mid-1972, Americans could still be involved in logistical and aerial support of South Vietnamese operations.

That is not all. Even when every single American, whether combat soldier, pilot, adviser or prisoner, is back home, this country's involvement in the struggle will not have ended. It will only have entered a new stage — or rather, have returned to much the same situation that existed in 1961.

South Vietnam will still require moral and material assistance — money, equipment, munitions. The war will still be going on, and will go on as long as North Vietnam believes it can take over South Vietnam by force.

There may be an end in sight to the killing as far as American combat soldiers are concerned, but there is no foreseeable end to the controversy over Vietnam.

Teens Lend Helping Hands to Worthy Causes

COUNTING THE CASH — J. Watson Bailey Junior High School students count out proceeds from benefit dance. Through their efforts a donation of $150.80 was presented to the Kingston Children's Library this week. On the steering committee for the event were (seated) Keith Coon, Diana Smedman and Amee Levine (standing) Laura Gordon and Eleanor Leyden. (Freeman photo by Haines).

KINGSTON Local teens are involved in a number of community projects these days. Here in Kingston, a group from J. Watson Bailey Junior High School staged a benefit to help save the Children's Library and up in Woodstock, young people will be canvassing the area for the current Cancer Crusade.

The Bailey school effort for the library took the form of a teen dance earlier this month which resulted in a $150.80 donation. Students and teachers served on planning committees and donated baked goods to be sold at the dance. The band, WSMF, made a partial donation of its services.

Serving on the steering committee were Keith Coon, Diana Smedman, Amee Levine, Laura Gordon and Eleanor Leyden. The band committee included Barbara Fabiano, Barbara Straub, Bob Naccarato and Casey Jones.

Serving on the ticket committee were Robinson Bradley, Leonard McClosky, Douglas Lischinsky, Kathy Grieco, Christy Goloski, Donna King, Wayne Hummel, Jody Smoller, Kris Dolan, Nancy Grey, Debbie Calhoun, Mary De Santos, Clem Douast, Chuck Harding, Pam Shaw, Debbie Dawson, Debbie Quick, Kelly Piro, Sue Massie and Beth Carr. The soda committee was, comprised of Keith Coon, Laura Gordon, John Naccarato, Leigh Ash, Robert De Simone, Art Swanson, George Walczak and Leslie Boucher.

Serving on the poster committee were Bill Manly, Debbie Raible, Joanne Kitsos, Kathy Mauris, Ellen Wienstein, Lorna Smedman and Margorie Colao.

Young people armed with canisters, identification badges and informational literature will cover the Woodstock area by foot and by car on Saturday, April 24, for this year's Cancer Crusade.

Ted Geertsema and Richard Mellert will lead the canvassers, who hope to collect $1,000 in their travels through Woodstock, Bearsville, Maverick and Zena.

This is the second year that fund raising for the Cancer Crusade has been conducted through door-to-door calls rather than a mail campaign, as in the past. The purpose of the drive is both financial and educational. Since the American Cancer Society is not associated with local Community Chest drives, it must raise funds on its own.

Whether families contribute or not, however, they will be given literature on cancer treatment, warning signals and research efforts to understand the disease and ultimately to cure or prevent it. Contributions are tax deductible, of course, the leaders said.

Youth in the News

Although spring has just sprung thoughts of fall are in the air, at least in the area of plan ahead for college. A number of college acceptances have been noted this week by Youth in the News.

Michael Donald Munro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Munro of Saugerties has been accepted at New England Aeronautical Institute and its Division Daniel Webster Junior College, Nashua, N.H. He plans to major in commercial pilot training at the two-year college.

A senior at Saugerties High School he is a member of Student Government and Ski Club at the school.

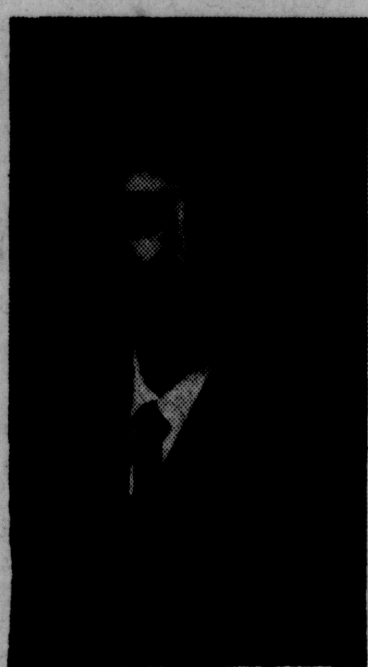

Mark Crisman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Crisman of RFD, Stone Ridge, has been accepted at Delaware Valley College, Doylestown, Pa. for the fall term. A senior at Ulster Academy, he intends to major in biology at Doylestown. He is a member of band and 4-H Club.

William Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cook of Olivebridge has been accepted at Columbia - Greene Community College, Athens, where he will major in forestry. He will graduate from Onteora High School this June. In high school he was a member of the National Honor Society and was selected as Boy's State delegate in his junior year.

For Ulster County students already in college, this spring has been a time of elections and honors.

John F. Adsit of Shokan, a junior at St. Lawrence University, has been elected president of the Thelomathesian Society, the university's student governing body.

An English major, Adsit has served on the Thelomathesian Senate, is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and the Student Judiciary Board. He has been active in the university's tutorial program at the St. Regis Indian Reservation.

MICHAEL D. MUNRO

Adsit is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Adsit of Route 79, Shokan.

Teri Marcus of Kingston has been elected pledge mistress of the Ithaca College Chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, the international Music Sorority.

Teri, a junior music major at Ithaca, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Marcus of 58 West O'Reilly Street, Kingston and is a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School.

Ann Cornish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Cornish of 242 Broadway, Port Ewen, a freshman at Hope College, Holland, Mich., is a new member of Alpha Phi social sorority.

Ann, a 1970 graduate of Kingston High School is majoring in sociology. Hope is a four-year liberal arts college affiliated with the Reformed Church in America.

Mark S. Grazier, a cadet at the United States Military Academy, West Point played host to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger E. Grazier of Woodstock during the annual Plebe Parent Weekend April 8 through 13. The program included briefings, tours and open house.

Area students continue to garner prized dean's list ratings at colleges around the country.

Dwight T. Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie G. Jenkins of Shokan, has been named to the dean's list at Wellsville Vocational Division of State University Agricultural and Technical College at Alfred. He is studying to be an automotive specialist.

Jay Van Wagenen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Wagenen of 135 Tinker Street, Woodstock is on the first semester dean's list at Cortland.

A sophomore, he is majoring in physical education at the State University College. He is a graduate of Onteora Central School and Orange County Community College.

Three area students have been named to high academic listings at College of Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass. Douglas J. Clancy of 30 Janet Street, Kingston, a freshman, and Russell G. Supples of 31 Washington Avenue, Kingston, a senior, were listed on first honor rolls. Freshman Robert D. Cook of 1 Burgevin Street, Kingston was named to the second honors list.

Two Kingston students enrolled in the School of Business Administration at Rider College, Trenton, N. J., have been named to the dean's list there. They are Mark Kachigian of 1 Kachigian Street and Michael Rosinski of 79 Boulevard.

Jon Gilbert Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Fox of West Hurley achieved dean's list rating at the College of William and Mary in Virginia.

Two Ulster County students at the Southern Illinois University's Carbondale Campus were posted to the winter term dean's list. They are John M. Schleede of 80 Yarmouth Street, Kingston and Cynthia Kolb of 20 Robinson Street, Saugerties.

Nashville Sounds Good

by LEI

When a major country music show pulls into Kingston next weekend, those who watch it will probably be impressed all over again that "country" music is rapidly becoming music for the entire country. Plaid shirts, frantic banjos, and fancy boots are giving way to small orchestras, beautiful girls in the latest fashions, and sophisticated musical arrangements. Most of today's country singers may have never gotten any further south than Baltimore, and they don't try to conceal the fact.

In spite of this, say "Country Music" and someone else will say "Nashville." (This is similar to thinking of Liverpool in connection with the latest George Harrison hit. Nashville was, indeed, the rooting place of country music, but its come a long way, baby.)

Ironically, the country singers who hit the charts with records cut in New York, Memphis, or (it has happened) London, all head straight for Nashville, to buy some of that real country sound for their next disc. Not only country singers, either — in one frantic week last year, Ringo Starr, George Harrison, and Bob Dylan were all in Nashville recording. What makes this more amazing is that neither of the former Beatles knew that the other was going to be there beforehand.

What has Nashville got that keeps the ever-expanding country music field converging on its recording studios? One of the biggest reasons is those recording studios. Built into a 32-square block area of Nashville, Tenn., is some of the most sophisticated, complicated, and advanced recording equipment in the world. Manning the equipment are some of the world's most talented technicians.

Nashville also has the musicians. Music history is filled with names of singers who have top-ten hits to their credit now, but who started by doing background music for name artists in Nashville. Some of these big-name artists still play background for their friends. Nashville is also the home of some musicians known chiefly for their background work. Lloyd Green, for instance, is probably the world's greatest living steel guitar player, and he has several solo hits, but his greatest fame is the unmistakable touch of his guitar in the background of many of the records made in Nashville.

There are approximately a hundred musical producers in Nashville, and several dozen recording companies. These are not just soundproof rooms slapped into storefronts, either. Nashville had some of the first 16-track recording studios in the world, and many of the studios are outfitted with synthesizers such as the Moog and Arp—far cries from the rickety banjos and honky-tonk pianos.

Some of the studios have features that can be found nowhere else in the world. One, Woodland Studios, has an electronic lighting system on three frequencies synchronized to the music. One Columbia Studio is built on springs so it floats, eliminating any possibility of outside vibration affecting tapes. Monument studios, while located in an older building, have constructed eight-foot-thick walls. Some of the air-conditioning equipment controlling the atmospheric influence on the tapes is the most advanced ever manufactured.

This centering of the recording industry in Nashville actually began around 20 years ago. The first studio was an old quonset hut in which two fellows named Owen Bradley and Paul Cohen began turning out hits in the fifties. The hut, incidentally, is still there—Columbia Studios bought it, and has installed millions of dollars of equipment in "Studio B."

From a start in a quonset hut to some of the world's tallest buildings—it would seem that Nashville has nowhere to go but up. With Johnny Cash out of one door as Ray Price rushes in the other, Nashville must be whistling "Dixie" all the way to the bank, correct? Well—not exactly. The music industry has concentrated thousands of transients in a small (1960 population, 173,000 people and a few scratchy hound dogs) town. The center of the music industry is Music Row, Nashville's 16th Street, which has remained unchanged for the past 20 years—except for the skyscrapers that have sprung up along it, and thousands of cars that cause monumental traffic tangles. The music industry has been trying for years to get 16th Street widened into a boulevard that can accommodate the influx of traffic, and it has been begging—in vain—for some urban planning to straighten out a town that has outgrown itself. Investors who have poured millions of dollars into mammoth buildings along the existing Music Row are becoming increasingly frustrated.

Some of them are doing something about it. The Country Music Hall of Fame is moving to a less-congested area outside of town. The newest studios are being built further out in the—figures—country. In another 20 years, Nashville may exist only as a legend. The sound it fostered, though, will live on.

Those who witness it transplanted to Kingston next weekend will understand why. You can take country music out of Nashville, but you . . .

In the Swim at YM

KINGSTON Two classes of life saving will be offered this spring at the YMCA to meet the growing number of people who would like to receive their life saving certification. Both classes will meet at the YMCA and will be taught by Mrs. Ginny Spinneweber, who is a certified YMCA and Red Cross instructor.

The first class, which is primarily for high school students, will meet from 2:45 to 3:45 p.m. Monday through Friday for three weeks. The second class will meet on Monday evenings from 7 until 9:30 p.m. for eight consecutive weeks. Both classes are open to members of the YMCA who are at least 15 years old and who are capable of swimming ¼-mile using four strokes.

Anyone interested should plan on attending the first session of either course, and take the preliminary swimming tests. Due to the size of the YMCA's pool, both classes will be limited to 20 participants. Those who successfully complete the course will receive both their YMCA and Red Cross senior life saving certificates. For further information the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA may be contacted, The Y, which is a member of the United Way of Ulster County, is at 507 Broadway.

Cooper-Engelhardt Nuptials Announced

The Rev. Christian Walvoord, officiated at the double ring wedding ceremony of Miss Joyce Susan Cooper of New Paltz, and Jurgen Oluf Engelhardt of Somers, on Saturday, April 10 at Dutch Reformed Church, New Paltz. Mrs. Arthur Kurtz provided traditional wedding selections and a long white floral piece accented the communion table.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vera Cooper of Waterford, N.Y., and Clarence Cooper of Fair Haven. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sievert Engelhardt, Somers, N.Y.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and wore a gown fashioned in the Juliet style with a high neckline and trimmed in Austrian lace. Her knee length veil fell from the Juliet cap and she carried white pompons and yellow roses in a colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Alayne Howard, Hudson, served as matron of honor for her sister in a mint green gown, accented with Austrian lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of white pompons and yellow daffodils.

Annegret Engelhardt, sister of the bridegroom, Somers; and Elise Colvin, cousin of the bride, Savannah, N.Y., served

MRS. JURGEN OLUF ENGELHARDT
(Lakeside Studio)

as attendants. They wore also trimmed in Austrian lace apricot gowns which were and carried colonial bouquets of white pompons and yellow daffodils.

The flower girl was Miss Elizabeth Howard, niece of the bride. Her mint green gown was styled similarly to those of the other attendants' and carried a basket of pompons and yellow daffodils.

All gowns were made by the bride's mother.

Michael Loconsolo of Brooklyn served as best man. Ushers were Angelo Menna, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and Neil Howard, brother-in-law of the bride. Neil Lee and Michael Howard, nephews of the bride were ringbearers.

A reception for 60 guests was held at Dominick's, New Paltz.

Mrs. Engelhardt is a graduate of Oswego High School, attended Westchester Community College and is a senior at State University College at New Paltz, where she is majoring in Elementary Education. She will receive her degree in August. Her husband, an alumnus of Somers High School, is operating a business in Brooklyn.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I got a chuckle over the letter from the girl in Eudora, Kan., who is dateless because she's "nice." Maybe there is something about Eudora that causes the trouble. When I went to high school there I never had a date either.

Tell her to hang on. If it takes 10 dateless years to find a husband as good as mine, it's worth it.

TERESA: E.H.S. Cass of '57 DEAR ABBY: This is for the nice girl from Eudora, Kan.

My roommate is a junior in college and I am a freshman. We were "decent" in high school and it paid off. We have done a lot of dating in college mostly with guys who ask us out more than once because they have a good time. And we don't have to put out either. The guys who just want sex don't ask us twice. And who needs them?

Most fellows respect girls who say no! Here is our motto: "Friendship may blossom into love, but don't cheapen yourself and give love to gain friendship." The joy of true love is worth all the waiting it takes.

FLAGSTAFF, ARIZ.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the girl who said that nice girls don't get dates. She's wrong. Boys don't ask girls out because they want only sex. Sure, if you're giving it away, they'll take it, but they do have other interests. I'll bet that nice Kansas girl is dateless because she lets a guy know right off the bat that she thinks all he wants is sex, and that turns him off.

LOTS OF DATES AND STILL A VIRGIN

DEAR ABBY: About that girl who said boys don't care to date nice girls. You said she was wrong. Well, you goofed. I say she absolutely right. Face it, Abby, you aren't a teen-ager anymore.

Linda Ann Moore Weds R. P. Townsend

Miss Linda Ann Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Moore, 200 Taylor Street, Centerport, and Richard Peter Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Townsend of 81 Albany Avenue, Kingston, were married March 27 at Centerport Methodist Church. The Rev. Lewis Young, pastor, officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected a white satin A-line dress featuring a front lace panel, and a headpiece of white satin flowers which held her cathedral length veil. Mrs. Townsend carried a bouquet of white gladiolus, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Kathy Murphy, Carle Place, L.I., was maid of honor. The Misses Elaine and Suzanne Rispoli of Centerport served as attendants. They wore royal blue velvet gowns in the empire styling, accented with light blue floral trim.

Peter Vercillo, Brentwood, was best man. Ushers were Eric Byne, Brooklyn; Louis Sadler, Walden; and David Moore, Centerport.

A reception was held at the Galetaway Restaurant, Huntington Station.

The bride attended Harborfields High School and is a graduate of State University of New York at New Paltz, Class of 1969. She is employed as a math teacher by the Plainville School District.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of SUNY at New Paltz and is employed as an urban planner for the Jersey City Redevelopment Agency.

Following a trip to Lancaster, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Townsend will make their home in Jersey City.

Saugerties DAR Meeting

A nominating committee was appointed at a recent meeting of Saugerties Chapter, National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution. The committee which includes the Mmes. Robert Freer, Herbert Hommel, Carol Kneifer, will report at the May meeting.

Mrs. Lew Gaylord, regent, presided at the meeting which took place at the home of Mrs. Herbert Hommel in Katsbaan, National Defense chairman, Mrs. Robert Freer, reported on an article entitled "Soviet Naval Base in Cuba" by Paul Scott which appeared in the National Defender.

Mrs. Thelma Young, American History Month Essay chairman, reported a letter had been received from Mrs. Bernice Lyon, New York State American History Month Essay chairman, stating that local students Pamela Fitzpatrick, sixth grade Main Street School; Mary O'Rourke, seventh grade St. Mary of the Snow; Susan Fiskelette of the eighth grade, had all been selected as District 3 winners for the State of New York. All three winners will receive the book entitled, "Book of Early Americana" or "Red Badge of Courage". Saugerties Chapter feels honored to have its three winners selected also as District 3 winners.

Mrs. Robert Freigh, Naturalization Court chairman, announced that five DAR members from the Saugerties Chapter attended the last Naturalization Court. There were 27 new citizens welcomed to the United States on that day and each received flags and flag code booklets from the Saugerties Chapter, DAR. The next naturalization court will be held in June.

Letters of thanks and appreciation were received from Cheri White, the Saugerties Chapter's adopted student at Tamassee School. An additional letter from the Crossnore School and the Hineman School in Kentucky were received, thanking the local Chapter for donations. In addition, a letter of thanks was received from the St. Regis Indian reservation.

Two additional lap robes have been made by DAR members and sent to the Veterans' Hospital.

Members were requested to save coupons to be used by the Children's Rehabilitation Center in Kingston; also Betty Crocker coupons for the drive for a kidney machine. The Saugerties Chapter, DAR will be one of the many groups assisting the Woman's Club of Saugerties for the restoration of "Little Sawyer's Mill."

Regent Mrs. Gaylord introduced the speaker for the afternoon, E. Robert Johnson, executive director of the Catskill Region. He was interesting and informative and concerned the many problems of our polluted world. He stated it had been proven that as a direct result of pollution many people die from emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

The meeting was closed with the recitation of the American Creed. During the serving of refreshments, Mr. Johnson continued an informal discussion concerning the problems of pollution.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Abbott, Spaulding Lane. The program will consist of committee reports and a report from the Constitutional Convention being held in Washington, D. C. during the month of April.

Communion Supper
 At a recent meeting of St. Mary's Altar-Rosary Society, plans were outlined for the Communion supper which will be held at the Capri '400' Restaurant in Port Ewen on Sunday, May 2, after the 5:15 Mass. Guest speaker will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Robert Moore, administrator of St. Charles Borromeo Church in Gardiner and chaplain at Wallkill Prison. Deadline for reservations will be April 25. No tickets will be sold at the door. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Virginia

Ellis or Mrs. Mary Bradley. Transportation may be arranged if necessary by contacting Mrs. Ellis.

A bus trip to Maryknoll is planned for Sunday, May 23 to attend the Departure Ceremonies. Tickets for this event also may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Bradley or Mrs. Ellis. Early reservations are suggested.

All women of the parish are invited to attend both events.

Twentieth Century Club
 Mrs. S. Maxwell Taylor of 46 Fairmont Avenue was hostess for the April 12 meeting of the Twentieth Century Club of Kingston. She presented a humorous reading entitled "Waiting for the Train" which was well received by the Club members.

Mrs. John Pope, program chairman introduced Mrs. Clifford Dumond who read a paper covering the ancestors and early years in the life of George Washington. In order to better understand Washington, the man, and the myths that have arisen about him, the discourse covered his family, as well as the citizens and political organization in Colonial Virginia at that time. Mrs. Dumond showed slides of the home of Washington's great grandfather, Sulgrave Manor, Northamptonshire, England.

Officers Elected

Mrs. Norman Fowler was elected president of ZAHCA Garden Club at the April 7 meeting held at the home of Mrs. William Kelly in Woodstock. Those who will serve with her include Mrs. Ronald Pratt, first vice president; Mrs. Ian Honeywood, second vice president; Mrs. Theodore Pade, recording secretary; Mrs. William Kelly, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Charles Martin, treasurer. They will be installed at the club's annual installation dinner on Wednesday, May 5.

Guest speaker at the meeting was John Blatter, horticulturist, who resides in West Hurley. He spoke about spring gardens, describing bulbs and maintenance of lawns and evergreens and answered various questions of the members.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
 I was making new slip covers for my couch and was on the last cushion when I realized I didn't have another long zipper to put in the cushion.

It was too late that night to run to the store, and I was expecting company the next day, so I had to finish the job.

So I used two short zippers with the opening of each facing the opening of the other.

When both zippers are opened you have the full length of the zipper.

MRS. JANET S.

Sort of face to face, wouldn't you say?
 And what a money saver this is, because those long zippers are very expensive.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:
 I'm on a low-carbohydrate diet, so potatoes are a no, no.

Now, when I go to a restaurant, I often ask for cottage cheese. When the others pass the little dish containing the chives, bacon crumbs, and sour cream, loading up their baked potatoes filled with carbohydrate grams, I just smile and put chives and bacon crumbs on my low-carbohydrate cottage cheese.

It's out of this world.

ALPHA WILLIAMS

Letter of Thought
 Dear Heloise:
 Here is a Recipe for Child Raising:

1 Cup Proverbs 22:6
 2 Tablespoons Proverbs 19:18
 Dash Proverbs 23:13
 Pinch Ephesians 6:4
 1 Teaspoon Proverbs 3:5
 ½ cup Titus 2:3 through 7
 Mix all the ingredients, add a pound of persistence, one cup of love, and whip until right consistency.

This recipe is recommended by the Creator of Mankind.

A Loving Reader

Dear Heloise:
 Here's a tip on how to make one's bath soap last much longer!

Place your inverted bath brush in the corner nook of your tub. Then just leave the soap resting on the bristles between use.

Works just as well as the little plastic soap saver

July Wedding Is Planned

Mrs. E. Buchmiller of Eucinitas, Cal. announces the engagement of her daughter, Rita Elizabeth, to Kenn Russell Copeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Copeman of West Saugerties.

The bride-elect is a graduate of San Diego State College. Her fiancé, an alumnus of Saugerties High School, is currently serving as P.O. 2nd Class in the U.S. Navy aboard the Kitty Hawk. He plans to enter the radio and television business upon his return.

A July wedding is planned.

COMMUNITY CONCERTS' MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN — Mrs. John A. McCullough, standing, right, publicity director for Community Concerts, and Mrs. George Wert, seated left, campaign chairman, welcome two of the many new workers, Mrs. Joseph Scholar, left, and Mrs. Richard Petro, who will be assisting with this year's membership campaign. The annual Captains and Workers' Tea will be held Sunday, April 18 at First Presbyterian Church, Kingston, from 3 to 5 p. m. Subscriptions for the Community Concerts for next year may be obtained from any of 100 workers in the area or at headquarters at Governor Clinton Hotel from May 3 to 8. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Welcome Wagon Sponsors Distribute Special Gifts

RECEIVING PRESENTS — Darlene Gunnet (C) and Susan Lavery (R) two of the many local young women who attended the recent Welcome Wagon Engaged Girl Party at Walnut Grove in Kingston, are shown here redeeming their gift coupons from Mrs. Burton S. Davis at Burgevin Florists. All those who attended the party also received gifts from such area sponsors as Johnson Ford, Ketterer's Bakery, Van Winkle Bedding, Gladys Bridal, Jennifer Shop, Esposito's Formal Wear, Andy's, Safford and Scudder, Photo Workshop, Card 'n Party, Hudson Rug, Greenwald's Travel, New Paltz Savings Bank. Mayor Koenig Proclaims April 18-24 as 'Y' Week

NATIONAL YWCA WEEK — Mayor Francis R. Koenig has designated the week of April 18-24 as National YWCA Week. Shown here with the Mayor are Gloria J. Graham, seated, executive director of YWCA; standing (L-f) Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey, member of Board of Directors; and Darlene Green, member of spotlight board. In his proclamation, the Mayor stated: "Today's ever-increasing problems confront us with growing challenges which pose grave threats to our society, especially to the youth of our country. The Young Women's Christian Association, an experienced organization dedicated to betterment of the human condition, offers unexcelled opportunities for those who wish to work toward such effective goals in meeting the challenges of today's times." He urges the public to support the YWCA. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Fitzgerald-Dalton Engagement

A dinner party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Dalton on April 12 to announce the engagement of Joan Schwall Fitzgerald, Cedar Hill Road, High Falls, and Petty Officer First Class David Dalton who is stationed at Groton, Conn. Submarine Base.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Schwall, 626 Howard Avenue, Staten Island. She attended schools in Staten Island and is employed as a bookkeeper by Walter Davenport and Sons, High Falls.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dalton of 1561 Unionport Road, Bronx, attended schools in the Bronx and served 12 years with the U.S. Navy.

A July wedding is being planned.

Your Horoscope

Sunday, April 18

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually beautiful day for being able to combine your best judgment with your most intuitive and prophetic insight so that you will be able to gain the right philosophy of life. This will enable you to proceed properly in the future and will prove to friends and others that you are a truly remarkable individual.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Getting together with individuals of fine character and broad outlook is wise since they can give you excellent ideas for greater success, happiness. Entertaining can bring fine results. Avoid talkative individuals.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Follow your intuition as well as good judgment to know what should be done to further your career successfully now. Plan how to please higher-ups more. Show greater concern for the welfare of others, also.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try a new course of action with associates and get better results. This also holds true with mate. Come to a better understanding with a person who is usually difficult but is now easy to handle. Avoid criticism.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get together with an expert and outline a new plan for accomplishing more work in the future. Use your intuition when selecting new clothing for yourself. Avoid showy colors.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan a little time for recreation with associates today and their mood will change to a more favorable one. Showing more devotion to mate brings right results, also. Do not criticize so much.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Working around the home so that it becomes more orderly and clean is good now. Buy mechanical gadgets that make it function more smoothly. Enter-tain at home instead of going out in p.m. Have fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show that you are a thoughtful person and repay social obligations now. Organize your hobby in a way that will give you much pleasure and satisfaction in the future. Get to bed early tonight so you can start work early tomorrow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Know what it is that those who live with you expect of you and try to please them insofar as they can. They need to have their egos built up. Some situation may require more work from you, so give it. Don't procrastinate any longer.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan some time for renewing faith you seem to have lost; you will then come out of that difficult situation you are in very easily. Garner the data you need, and you gain more cherished aims. Use diplomacy, though.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you enlarge your thinking you find you can add appreciably to your present income. Plan some repair to your property that will add to comfort and value. Avoid some situation that is not to your liking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Seek out those individuals you particularly like and state your aims and ambitions. Try to help them gain theirs also and you find something fine can come of this. Avoid persons who do not appreciate you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Getting off into the quiet of your study and planning the future by tuning in on your intuitive faculties is best way to spend part of the morning. Evening is excellent for romance. Increase happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those interesting people who has a penchant for helping others, whether with their personal or business problems. Slant the education along lines that can be used for service to the community. The life here then can be both successful and satisfying. There is much ability at whatever is of a social nature, too. Send to the college of own choice and do not neglect religious training early. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Monday, April 19

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An ideal day and evening to use that boundless energy to organize your ambitions and ideals as a constructive part of your life. If directed wisely success will be yours for a considerable period. Socialize and get together with as many persons as possible.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You can join forces with good friends now and thereby add to prestige, pleasure and purposeful pursuits. Take part in group affair, but don't try too much to dominate others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan how to improve your career by making good use of your reputation and good credit. Get in touch with bigwigs for the backing you desire. Be tactful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have fascinating new information now available that can help you with projects at hand. Put it to good use. Planning an important trip is good. Expansion should be one your mind.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can now handle those obligations ahead of you in a most efficient way. Evening is best time for happiness with the one you love. Don't forget to pay an important bill.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Once you have obtained the information you need, discuss with associates your future plans. It will be easy to get others to go along with your ideas now. Avoid going off on any tangents.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you schedule your time wisely, you can finish all that work ahead of you, and still have time to handle private matters. Co-workers are very cooperative. Make the most of this.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to enjoy social pleasure in the evening if you contact your friends early. Your closest tie will gladly go along with what ideas you have now. Discuss them in private.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) This is the right day to have discussions with kin. Coordinate your efforts and make right plans for the future. Entertaining at home tonight is fine. Make sure everything is in perfect order.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Discuss with associates how to have greater business success and how to improve comforts at home. Buy the appliances you need for home or office. Have fun tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can handle monetary affairs very well and add to present assets by right dealings. Listen to the advice of an expert who poses modern methods. Profit by this greatly. Remove any clutter at home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use those gregarious qualities in a wise way now and make new contacts for the future. Showing friends your true loyalty is appreciated and brings fine results. Avoid one who likes to waste your time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can start new plan confidentially with an expert. Later fine results can be expected. Show appreciation for those who have done you favors in the past and you gain more goodwill for the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who is a natural-born engineer and able to make plans that take in not only material ramifications but the best psychology to use, combined with fine organizational ability. Direct duties so that your child has a chance to use such abilities to best advantage. Then great success is possible.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for May is now ready. 'In Family' Weathered All HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—There were howls of either laughter or anger when CBS-TV this year presented the debut of its new series, "All In The Family," about a middle-class husband-father with strong prejudices about controversial subjects.

The program was an adaptation of a sensational success—fu British series, "Till Death Do Us Part," and CBS-TV's commitment to this new blunt kind of contemporary video comedy was as significant as its commitment to dump its long-running rural series—which it did.

Nevertheless, even some persons connected with "All In The Family" didn't give the series much of a chance to last beyond 13 weeks. The feeling in general was that the show would be either an all-out smash hit or a fast-fading change of pace. But the feeling was wrong, for "All In The Family," like any number of series, simply got itself a respectable rating, and hung in there.

Perhaps it showed that Americans are pretty blasé about most entertainment by now—and are willing, after all, to try just about anything, despite the fears of nervous executive types. In any case, not only did "All In The Family" get pretty good ratings—it also won a renewal on CBS-TV's new schedule for the fall while programs like "The Beverly Hillbillies" and "Mayberry R.F.D." bit the dust.

But whereas the series was a very iffy proposition when it first showed this episode, it starts the re-runs with quite a different status—not merely as a renewed program, but as one that received seven Emmy nominations Monday.

Only one other weekly series received more Emmy nominations than "All In The Family," and that was CBS-TV's Mary Tyler Moore show, also new. Miss Moore's program gathered eight nominations. And nine were earned by "The Senator," segments of NBC-TV's "The Bold Ones." Hal Holbrook, famous for his one-man show as Mark Twain, starred in "The Senator," which unfortunately has been canceled because of low ratings.

"All In The Family" was nominated for best comedy series, and also for best new series. In addition, Carroll O'Connor, who plays the prejudiced family man, earned a nomination for best leading man in a comedy series. And Jean Stapleton, who is marvelous as his wife, was nominated for best leading woman in a comedy series. The show also got two writing nominations (for two episodes). The seventh nomination came for direction of another episode.

Of the five shows nominated for best comedy series, four are new—"All In The Family," fused to be shut out and went to four spades.

East and West decided to let South play there. West had good defense. East had very little defense, but decided not to take a sure loss at five clubs.

East won the club lead with his queen and if East had been at all careless he would have attempted to cash a second club whereupon South would have made his contract.

East was not going to fall into that trap. He was sure that his partner held four clubs for the jump raise so that no second club trick was available. Then where could the defense find three more tricks?

One way would be if West held the ace of hearts. In that case the king of hearts led would yield two hearts and a ruff.

Therefore, East plunked his king of hearts on the table. West didn't have the ace, but he did hold something that was just as good. South had to take his ace right away and lead a trump. West produced the ace and led queen and one heart to set poor South.

Seeks National Role

Stokes Won't Run

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Carl B. Stokes, a high school dropout who in 1967 became the first elected black mayor of a major American city, has announced he will not run for reelection and indicates he will seek a national role.

Stokes, who contended in a recent interview that "I don't have any national ambitions," said Friday night his service as mayor of Cleveland "has, of necessity, been limited to a relatively small constituency."

He said he wanted to "expand my efforts beyond the Cleveland area to assist others, particularly the locked-in minority groups, to better understand their role in politics and government."

Stokes, 43, a Democrat, gave no indication on how he planned to fulfill such a role.

Speculation among political observers here was that he might seek the vice presidency as the first national black candidate for that post. Some Democrats have suggested Stokes as a possible 1972 candidate.

Aides to Stokes discounted reports he might receive a federal appointment the late Whitney M. Young Jr., as executive director of the Urban League.

Stokes' worst setback as mayor was a 1968 shootout in the city's predominantly black Glenville area that left three white policemen and seven Negro civilians dead. Money to finance the operations of the black-nationalist group involved in the shootout had come from the mayor's "Cleveland: NOW!" program.

Stokes said recently that "unquestionably" the dominant issue in the city and nation today is white racism.

He and his brother, U.S. Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, broke away from the Democratic party last year and formed the 21st District Congressional Caucus. His support from the party since that time has been minimal.

Since the split he has often found himself at odds with the Democratic controlled City Council.

The council has consistently blocked Stokes' proposals for the construction of public housing and has opposed him on a wide variety of other issues.

FCC Turns Off On Drug Songs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission, shrinking from accusations of censorship, has declared itself powerless to punish the broadcasting of songs with so-called "drug lyrics."

Broadcasters must decide what songs to put on the air, the commission said Friday, but the FCC "cannot properly make or review such individual licensee judgments."

There were indications, however, that critics might continue to press for complete retraction or judicial invalidation of the commission's March 5 policy statement advising broadcasters of their "responsibility ... to exercise adequate control ..."

Commissioner Nicholas Johnson promised a dissenting statement and Tracy Westen, lawyer for a group suing for an injunction against the policy, said the group may press forward with its suit.

The March 5 statement, Johnson said at that time, was "an unsuccessfully disguised effort ... to censor song lyrics that the majority approves of; it is an attempt by a group of establishmentarians to determine what youth can say and hear."

Westen said that by expressing its disapproval of "drug lyrics" the FCC may have implanted in broadcasters a fear that could be erased only by a court decision.

Commissioner Robert T. Bartley, who took no part in the March 5 statement, voted for Friday's lengthy "clarification" but seemed to share the doubts that it could entirely wipe out the fears of censorship.

The new statement prior to the release of the Public Notice of March 5, 1971, to the extent that it does so, I concur in the action here taken."

Commissioner H. Rex Lee, recalling his earlier warning, commented: "I did have some concern that the Notice might be misunderstood, and so stated in my

Speculation on Another Invasion

Offensive Rolls Toward Laos

SAIGON (UPI) — A South Vietnamese offensive moved through the A Shau Valley toward the Laotian border today and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, said he did not rule out another invasion.

Abrams' comment came shortly after President Nguyen Van Thieu confirmed a large scale South Vietnamese drive through the 35-mile-long valley which has been a battleground for 20 years, and again raised the possibility of invading North Vietnam.

"This is the one thing they really fear," Thieu said of a possible push into North Vietnam. He spoke in the old imperial capital of Hue.

Abrams told UPI Correspondent Margaret Kilgore at Hue: "Operation Lam Son 720 does not rule out some degree of incursion into Laos but I don't know if it is going into Laos."

A U.S. military spokesman said he had "no knowledge" of any American air or artillery support for Operation Lam Son 720 in the A Shau Valley but the U.S. Command reported two U.S. B52 bombing missions

Friday and today midway between the Valley and Hue, 28 miles east of the area. A military source said the targets of each of the strikes were less than a mile apart.

The A Shau Valley was once the route of the Ho Chi Minh Trail into South Vietnam. Two major U.S. military operations in 1968 and another in the summer of 1969 forced the Communists to move the trail westward through Laos. However the Valley has been in Communist hands since the U.S. 101st Airborne Division withdrew more than 18 months ago.

At Fire Base 6, 100 miles south of the A Shau Valley, Gen. Ngo Dzu, commander of South Vietnam's military region II, said his troops sweeping the area found "hundreds" of bodies of North Vietnamese killed by U.S. B52 raids. He said one of two North Vietnamese infantry regiments involved in the two-week siege of Base 6 had withdrawn after suffering annihilation of its 300 man sapper battalion.

Thieu used the occasion of a parade and rally celebrating

South Vietnamese accomplishments of the Laotian incursion to confirm that the South Vietnamese army has launched a drive into the A Shau, along the Laotian border 375 miles northeast of Saigon.

"Lam Son 719 (the Laotian invasion) is a military, spiritual, psychological and political Dien Bien Phu inflicted on North Vietnam," Thieu said. Dien Bien Phu was the French-defended fortress which fell to the Communist Viet Minh in May, 1954 to virtually spell the end of French rule in Indochina. "I want to repeat to you my four no's—no coalition, no neutrality, I will not give up any piece of (South Vietnamese) land and I will not allow the Communists to act openly in the south," he said.

"We are determined to maintain this active and offensive role so that they will be in a forever threatened position," Thieu said. "All the Communist deny Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) to their defeats, they must recognize the fact that for three years now they have lost the people, the land in South Vietnam, the people's sympathy and support which they formerly controlled. They will be pushed back from the frontier and fought in Cambodia and Laos."

"And we can attack them in North Vietnam. This is the one they really fear. The proof is that they have moved their people from north of the DMZ to south of the DMZ," he said.

Governments Meeting

Mideast at Crossroads

By United Press International Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said today the Middle East is living through "crucial hours" which would decide the chances of even a partial agreement between Israel and Egypt.

Eban spoke on the eve of a decisive cabinet meeting while the leaders of Egypt, Syria and Libya were reported to have signed an agreement creating a "Federation of Arab Republics" aligned against Israel.

In a Hebrew language radio interview in Tel Aviv Eban said:

"We are now living through crucial hours which will decide the chances for an interim agreement between Israel and Egypt. We cannot be sure that a separate agreement will be reached on the opening of the (Suez) Canal, but the chances are not negligible."

Last Sunday's regular weekly cabinet session was cancelled because of the Passover holidays, which end today. But in the last 10 days Israeli leaders Eban, in the third interview have given a series of news- he has given in a week, said if paper, radio and television there was to be an agreement interviews obviously aimed at Egypt would have to give a preparing the public for some little and put forward more major statement on the Canal. realistic proposals than those Eban said he was in favor of recently outlined by President having the Canal reopened Anwar Sadat.

because he believed this would prevent a new outbreak of war. Sadat's proposals, which called for the pullback of Israeli troops from the Canal and their replacement by Egyptian troops, was Egypt's final bargaining position.

April Rains Shower Texas

By United Press International

April rains skipped fire-plagued and tinder-dry Florida, Virginia and the Carolinas Thursday but produced knee-deep water in west Texas.

Fair skies dominated the nation today except for the Mississippi Valley and the upper Great Lakes region. Temperatures rose above 60 in all but the northeastern and northwestern corners of the country.

A new large blaze broke out in the Florida Everglades a few hours after a 30-mile swamp-grass fire was controlled. Firefighters still hoped for an end to the drought—the worst in Florida's history—as they tried to extinguish blazes in more than 23,000 acres of the Everglades National Park's northwest corner.

Forest fires raged out of control on two mountains near Blacksburg, Va. A 6,000-acre forest fire raged in coastal Currituck County in North Carolina where more than 22,000 acres were charred by a series of fires in the past week. A number of small brush and forest fires burned in South Carolina, where more than 5,000 acres of woodland have been charred in the past week.

Officials in 18 Florida counties asked that residents ration their water so it could be used for firefighting. A proclamation in Pennsylvania banned all smoking and fires within 200 feet of woodlands.

Dust-bowl conditions in west Texas turned into brief flash floods. "The rains are a possible reprieve, but not a pardon from the drought," said Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. He said rain would have to continue to save farms and ranches from ruin.

"Our livestock people and many farmers have already suffered losses that will compound into hundreds of millions of dollars," White said.

SCOTT BODIE sings one of the catchiest of all show tune numbers, "Her Is the Cutest One," to the delight of Linda J. Hayden. Twosome is rehearsing for "The Pajama Game," set for presentation in New Paltz on April 29 and 30 and May 1.

Love Blossoms in the Pajama Factory

Who could imagine a conflict between capital and labor developing into an engaging and entertaining situation? The people who dreamed up the Pajama Game, that humorous look at labor union problems — that's who!

Music and more music underscores the delightful production of "Pajama Game" now in rehearsal down New Paltz way. The show abounds with any number of memorable songs for audiences to hum as they leave the theatre, and dynamic choreography fuses the musical elements into a fast-moving, inventive production.

"The Pajama Game" will be presented in New Paltz on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 29, 30 and May 1 by Ninety-Miles-Off-Broadway, Paltz's amateur theatre group.

A Talented Trio

A trio of talented directors is currently putting the cast through rehearsal paces. Directing "Game" is James Scott of High Falls. New Paltz Middle School music teacher Albert Rothstein is music director, and Mrs. Gae Dixon, also of Paltz, is directing choreography.

Scott's experience spans a wide range of theatre activity; includes theatre arts instruction as well as acting and directing. Rothstein's baton will guide a 24-piece orchestra through the delightful "Pajama Game" music, including some of the catchiest tunes and tenderest ballads ever written for the musical stage. The score includes such all-time favorites as "Steam Heat," "Hernando's Hideaway," "Hey There," and others.

Leading roles in the 90 Miles production will be played by Walter Paradies and Linda Herr. Paradies will appear as "Sid," the factory supervisor, and Miss Herr has been cast as "Babe," the spirited chairwoman of the Union Grievance Committee.

The clock-watching timekeeper, "Hines," will be portrayed by Frank Juliano, and Paul Assion has been cast as "Hasler," the factory owner. Scott Bodie will appear as the married but incorrigibly romantic union president, and Linda Hayden will be seen as "Gladys," the pretty secretary with the key to all the plot's problems.

Others Featured

Other featured players include Tom Green as "Joe," Roco Pietrofesa as the "Salesman," Pam Geuss as "Mabel," Lucy Livingston as "Mae," Nancy Grosshans as "Poppie," and Karen Strazzere as "Brenda."

Theatre buffs will remember that the setting for "Pajama Game" is the Sleep Tite Pajama Factory in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Inside and outside its walls, an entertaining conflict between capital and labor is resolved in a most unusual and romantic fashion.

Consider, for example, what mayhem results when pajama tops fall behind pajama bottoms after a production slowdown results from an hysterical mandate for production efficiency.

"Game" has been recognized by critics as an excellent example of music, dance and well integrated story and the upcoming Ninety-Miles-Off-Broadway production promises to be a delightful "nightcap" to a decade of this group's involvement in amateur theatre. Although it involves production line efficiency, the Paltz play will yield hand-tailored entertainment when it's all sewed up.

Better plan to reserve your seats now for an evening of musical fun when "Game" takes to the stage of the New Paltz High School auditorium, South Putt Corners Road, New Paltz, at 8:30 p.m. April 29, 30 and May 1.

'Late for Oblivion'—Three Playlets by Beye

Ever since performing Arts of Woodstock first emerged on the area theatrical scene, the fortunes of the group have often been tied with the works of perceptive playwright Holly Beye.

Working together in the past, Miss Beye and Performing Arts have given audiences here a wide variety of theatrical fare, ranging from the engaging political satire presented by The Heads to the rollicking wit peppered throughout "The White Angel," which zeroed in on the black-white problem in America. PAW has also staged "The Banana Thief," Miss Beye's play with music.

Now the fusion between playwright Beye and the onstage and backstage crews will be strengthened again, when Holly Beye's three new one-act plays, collectively entitled LATE FOR OBLIVION, open in Woodstock April 23. "Oblivion" represents a switch for Miss Beye, who has moved from the social satire with which she has been associated in the past to a perusal of ancient mythology. Politics, a favorite Beye subject, is sublimated in "Oblivion"—and the emphasis is mainly on romantic tragedy.

Crockett Directing

The new PAW-produced work by Miss Beye will be directed by Allison Crockett, who also directed the group's award-winning presentation of "Brecht on Brecht," which took special honors at the State Festival in Corning recently. The talented cast will include Kim Herald, Joan Sullivan, Donna Albright, Garrett Church, Rudy Hopkins and Jerry Berke.

Delving into literature, author Beye has entitled one of the playlets, EURYDICE. It concentrates on the world of a folk-rock artist, who sends his romantic wife back to the Underworld to preserve her innocence and his own creativity.

The second playlet of the trio, THE DARK MAIDEN FROM THE NINTH HEAVEN, concerns a schizophrenic housewife who forces her husband to let her go.

A Chanted Ritual

The world of dance is important to the plot of the final play, HOW THUNDER AND LIGHTNING BEGAN. A story about two children who starve to death when they are discarded by their family, "Thunder" is mostly a choreographed chanted ritual. Choreographer for the piece is Beverly Oxley, teacher of African dance and a production assistant at Bard College.

"Late for Oblivion" opens Friday, April 23 at the Parish Hall of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Saugerties Road, Woodstock. The A-frame church will host six performances of the play which will run for three consecutive weekends on Friday and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $2 each and may be purchased at the door or reserved by calling 679-2114.

HOLLY BEYE

BEACH SCENE by Cecile Forman is more summery than spring-like. Still, it adds a dash of sunshine and charm to the first membership show of the season currently at the Woodstock Art Gallery. Some viewers found it reminiscent of the work of the late, great Milton Avery.

PASSOVER IS commemorated in the "Welcome to Spring" show in Woodstock by "The Malamud." As depicted by Artist David Eckstein, "The Malamud" is a figure of sorrow. (Freeman photos by John Kruh).

'Welcome to Spring' Show at Woodstock Art Gallery

Although little of the subject matter in the current membership show at the Woodstock Art Gallery deals specifically with the theme of spring—the exhibition is entitled "Welcome to Spring"—and the show is a welcome event.

A pleasant floral arrangement by Caroline Haeblerlin and a handsome metal butterfly by Ed Chavez do typify the new season. The Vietnamese children, scarred with napalm, in Kenneth Downer's painting, on the other hand, sear the heart and are a testament to the joylessness of spring for many years in that country.

Easter and Passover, celebrated side by side this year, are commemorated by The Christ of Helen Gilkey and The Malamud by David Eckstein. Both figures are depicted as men of sorrow.

A Beach Scene

A beach scene by Cecile Foreman, one of Woodstock's exceptionally able painters, is reminiscent of an Avery except that Mrs. Foreman prepares her palette with less brio than the late painter.

Lucile Blanch's entry, a small, charming canvas, appears to portray the fairy tale of The Princess and The Frog. Augusta Pirrung is represented by a gay floral painting while Sam Prager's allegory of the present dissent in American life is an extremely well-crafted work. Sculptor Prager used a bronze-painted plastic that simulates plaster which gave a remarkable illusion of metal.

Some 55 artists are participating in the current show, among them Reginald Wilson, Robert Angeloch, R. Wachtel, Anick DuCharme, Doris Lee and Daniel Revzan.

The exhibition, made possible through partial funding by the New York State Council on the Arts, will run through April 24. Gallery hours during the show are from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, and 3 to 5 p.m. weekdays. A considerable number of the paintings are for sale.

The public is cordially invited.

You Can See It All at 'Camp-O-Rama'

In theory, people go camping to get away from it all. In practice, many campers like to take with them most of the conveniences of home.

Weekend or week-long trips "to the mountains" have changed since the days when campers packed up the family car, drove off into the wilderness to pitch a tent. Mobile campers have taken the wild out of the wilderness for those who prefer a little comfort along with the great outdoors. But those attracted to the wilderness untouched can still "rough it" with as much or as little equipment as they like.

You'll get a look at both sides of the picture if you treat yourself to another outing at the fourth annual "CAMP-O-RAMA" and Outdoor Recreational Living Show coming up locally next weekend. Sponsored by the Ulster County Chapter of the National Campers and Hikers Association, the Big exhibit takes over the Ulster County Fairgrounds in New Paltz on April 24 and 25.

Founded Locally

And while you're browsing, you might bear in mind that the National Campers was founded right here in the Catskill Mountains. It all got rolling at "Beaverkill," the New York State campsite at Livingston Manor. It was here that H.N. "Hank" Elsworth, NCHA's founder, settled down to camping with a group of families in 1954. Legend has it that a big city doctor was vacationing in a luxury hotel nearby; ventured into the Beaverkill wilderness looking for a perfect fishing spot. Meeting up with "Hank" and his friends, he was impressed that they were having more fun "camping out" than he and his family were having back at the posh hotel.

To make a long story short, he corralled his family, a tent and some "camping" equipment, and joined the Beaverkill group. Rescued from the difficulties that always plague "new campers" by Hank, the good doctor found himself enjoying the great out of doors to the hilt; was soon a camping club that could become a new source of social enrichment.

From this beginning grew the National Campers and Hikers, operating first on a local scale and then erupting into today's nationwide organization. Today, NCHA has members (65,000 families strong) in every state of the U. S. and Canada, and several other countries — and it all started on the Beaverkill in the Catskills.

Ulster's a Leader.

Chartered chapters alone number more than 2,200 with over 300 teen chapters in addition. New York State leads in the number of chapters and our own Hudson Valley District can boast of being the largest of those in membership and FOLD UP, pop up, outside frame, inside frame, skimobile, or whatever an outdoorsman's heart desires — it'll all be at the Ulster County Camp-O-Rama in New Paltz next weekend.

KAYAK, CANOE, or something else floatable for you, too? "Hey, mom, look what's new!" You'll see the latest to take the wild out of the wilderness at Camp-O-Rama. (Milton Wagenfohr photos).

MORTON GOULD

'The Birthday Party' From Lincoln Center

The Repertory Company of Lincoln Center will present Harold Pinter's modern classic, "The Birthday Party," at Orange County Community College, Middletown, at 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, April 21, in the college's Orange Hall theater.

Sponsored by the OCCC Lyceum Series in conjunction with the State University-wide Committee on the Arts and the State Council on the Arts, the production will feature predominantly the same cast that made 'Party' a hit at Lincoln Center in February.

The play is open to the public, with admission $2 for adults and $1 for students. Reservations may be made by calling the college, (914) 343-1121, extension 202.

Comedy of Menace

Described by the author as "a comedy of menace," "The Birthday Party" is rated as a classic. After its London premiere in 1958, the London Sunday Times wrote that Pinter was the most "original, disturbing and arresting talent in the theatrical London."

The play takes place in a seedy English boarding house run by the frumpish Meg, portrayed by Pricilla Pointer. Miss Pointer replaced Betty Field in the production when Miss Field joined a new Edward Albee play on Broadway.

Meg's husband, Petey, portrayed by Ray Fry, is a deck chair attendant, but the real apple of Meg's eye is the boarder Stanley, played by Ray Phelan. To the boarding house come Goldberg (Robert Symonds) and McCann (John Harkins) who soon make it apparent they have come to "get" Stanley, in action that is suggestive of Hemingway's short story, "The Killers."

"The Birthday Party" is Pinter's first full-length work and has as its theme the mystery, menace and a strange ritual of fate that lurk beneath the surface of an ordinary home. Director Jules Irving worked closely with the author in selecting the cast and the staging. Phelan, Symonds and Fry will be repeating the roles they played in the U.S. premiere of the play in San Francisco.

Famed Composer Morton Gould Conducts 'Fall River' Here

One of the world's most celebrated composers, the ever-influential Morton Gould, will be guest conductor of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra. Gould comes to Kingston for the final concert in HVPO's 1970-71 season, to be presented at the Community Theatre on April 19 at 8:30 p. m..

Gould's major symphonic works have won world-wide recognition; have been performed and recorded frequently by leading symphony orchestras and conductors. His ballets include the popular and perennial "Fall River Legend," and the best musical news of the year is that he will conduct the Hudson Valley Philharmonic in a performance of this work at the upcoming concert here.

The evening program on April 19 will also include "Soundings," an already celebrated work commissioned by Atlanta's Junior League for Robert Shaw and the Atlanta Symphony and performed for the first time only so recently as the fall of 1969.

By critical and audience standards, Morton Gould is one of today's most prolific and multi-talented composer-conductors. A native New Yorker, born in late 1913, he first gained critical attention as a piano prodigy through his ability to improvise on a given theme.

At the age of only 21 he conducted and arranged a weekly series of orchestral radio programs. Since then he has become one of the most active influences on the American musical scene in all its varied facets — concert, ballet, radio, theatre, movies, television, recording and educational.

There is no way possible to glibly categorize the many talents of Morton Gould — except to recognize the component parts as making up one musical entity of great genius. What Gould represents is conditioned in part by the individual listener. Avid radio buffs in the '30s and '40s remember his long tenure as conductor, arranger, composer and pianist of symphonic radio programs.

To them, he is a master of light classical and semi-popular music in rich and creative settings for large symphonic orchestras. To others, he is an inspired composer for the ballet and the concert stage.

Gould's contributions go back over many years and, in a sense, anticipated the theory and "rationale" that developed in only the most recent of years. The Gould style is the result of a natural expression, conditioned by his unique talent and influences.

But all of us have benefited from this in the past, and will benefit again through his appearance here this month.

active chapters. Ulster County presently leads in number of chapters and chapters being formed. And they go by such "on the road" names as Stone Ridge's Rondout Valley Rovers, Woodstock's Camptown Trotters, Kingston's Rip Snorters, Ontoera Travelers and Sawyerkill Knight-Owls, Paltz's Camp-Liters, Highland's Appleworms and Huguenot Hobos, and Ellenville's Shongum Shockers.

All of which means that wherever you see a camper today traveling the highways, or whenever you come upon a glowing campfire at night, you're probably seeing a NCHA'er enjoying fun and friendship the outdoors way.

If the stress is on wilderness fun, it's also on conservation and ecology — taking responsibility for leaving our natural resources in trust for future generations. And there's stress, too, on improving camping and hiking facilities, evaluating equipment, planning group campouts and pot-luck suppers, swapping tales and recipes 'round the campfire, sharing information year round.

NCHA as a fraternity has earned its nickname of "the friendliest people in the world." You'll see why if you join them this coming weekend, April 24 and 25 at their Camp-O-Rama in New Paltz. Across the county fairgrounds will be spread the largest outdoor display of camping equipment, recreational vehicles, and supplies ever assembled in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

An Instant City

The latest in everything for the camper will be on view as more than 130 families form an instant city of their own homes away from home to augment the commercial displays. They'll answer any and all question; hold seminars on everything from tow vehicles to tent-type folding trailers, travel trailers, pick-up truck mounted units, and plush motor homes where central air conditioning, wall-to-wall stereo and other comforts take a front seat to the kitchen sink.

If you plan to wend your way to New Paltz next Saturday or Sunday, you'll find the gate open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sunday. There's no admission charge, but there will be prizes galore.

So trek on down, talk to the families in residence at the big show, learn that they've taken their campers of all varieties to anywhere and everywhere. Camp-O-Rama is worth a visit — just for the fun of it, or to pick up on the home cooked refreshments of Ulster County 4-H Clubs, or to get a non-camper's eye view of why recreational outdoor living as embodied in camping is now the number one leisure time happening across America.

TOBY CAREY AT WORK

Meet-the-Artist On Personal Film Making

Toby Carey, who has been described as "a photographic wizard with a new life style," will speak at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College on Tuesday, April 27, for a Meet-the-Artist program.

He will talk on "Personal Film Making" at 1:40 p.m. in Lecture Hall 420 in the John Burroughs Science Building, and will explore the world of the independent filmmakers of today.

The program, which is free and open to the public, is being sponsored by the Visual Arts Department at UCCC.

Lives Communally

Carey lives communally with his two brothers, their wives and children in the Willow section of Woodstock, and the constant interaction in this living situation provides him with ideas and materials for films.

He and his younger brother, Alan, make films and teach others how to make films. His course, "Making Home Movies," has been offered by the Center for Continuing Education at UCCC.

Carey also has taught film studies in a concentrated employment program for the Westinghouse Learning Corp. and at Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary in Esopus.

He served in the Peace Corps, training educational TV personnel in Bogata.

Much of his recent film work has focused on such contemporary events as the Woodstock Festival and the Yippie march on the Pentagon.

Television

Area Seventh Grader Tapped by Television

Thad Weinlein, son of the Alfonso Weinleins of Poughkeepsie, completed shooting recently for his third television commercial. This latest was a Manhattan network's promotion which is now in release. It was filmed in New York and depicts a comic breakfast scene with the family tuned to the radio while a bug exterminator commercial interrupts their tasty meal.

Twelve-year-old Thad, who attends seventh grade at St. Mary's School in Poughkeepsie, appeared for over a year on a national baker's TV commercial when he played the part of a soldier puppet. His second commercial was filmed in Munich, Germany in front of the famous Hofbrau with a loud German brass band for an airline. Thad has also performed at the New York World's Fair, Expo '67, Steel Pier in Atlantic City and several times on the Ted Mack TV Show. He has appeared on "The Barn" over Channel 6, on "Merry Christmas to You from Channel 12" and at the New York Hilton Hotel for a national industrial show. Locally he has appeared at Marist College in "110 in the Shade", and in all of the Estelle & Alfonso studio productions since he was four-years-old. The latest was "The Christmas Show" last December at Poughkeepsie High School. He is a member of Estelle & Alfonso's Performers' Club which entertains at local civic and charity events. Thad studies all forms of dance at his parents' studio as well as singing, baton, drama and organ.

Thad, whose hobbies include model rocketry, enjoys all types of sports, especially swimming. He is also a member of St. Mary's Boy Scouts in Poughkeepsie.

THAD WEINLEIN

THE MANY FACES OF FLIP WILSON are displayed in a quartet of photos. The zany comedian's weekly variety show has just been voted "Favorite New Television Show" of the season by thousands of magazine readers.

Hooray for Love!

Channel 17/WMHT will present a week-long video valentine for its viewers beginning Monday, April 19, at 11:00 p.m. "HOORAY FOR LOVE!" will attempt to show the many faces of love through song, dance, drama, poetry, comedy and puppetry.

Betsy Palmer will hostess an all-star cast including husband and wife combinations Celeste Holm and Wesley Addy; song stylists Jimmy and Mary Mc-Partland; and modern-folk singers Jason and Maryhazel. For comedy, Godfrey Cambridge will discuss "Love: From Matrimony to Alimony."

On the theory that you can't have too much love, Channel 17 will continue showing "HOORAY FOR LOVE!" on Tuesday, April 20 at 11:00 p.m., Wednesday, April 21 at 7:00 p.m., Thursday, April 22 and Friday, April 23 at 11:00 p.m.

With the hope that some of this love will be reciprocated Channel 17 is combining this valentine to its viewers with its April Membership Week. Special phones will be set up to enable viewers to call in their pledges during this week.

Precedent Set

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — For the first time in its history Universal Pictures has contracted for a two-picture deal for successive pictures with director Fred Zinnemann who will film "Abelard and Heloise" and "The Day of the Jackal."

is the magic number — when you save with US

1. Save for 15 years
2. Spend the same amount for 15 years
3. Still have more money than you saved!

It's true! You can save for 15 years — then spend the same monthly amount you saved for as long as you live, and still have more in your estate than you saved!

You can save any amount — $5 - $10 - $25 a week — the plan still applies.

Come see US today about a savings plan for you and your family's future.

With US you get the highest dividends permitted in New York State.

WOODSTOCK SCHOOL OF ART

New on the Art Scene for Spring

From the Woodstock School of Art comes news of spring and summer classes in Landscape Painting, Life Drawing, Etching, Engraving and Color Printing.

Conducting Landscape Painting and Life Classes will be longtime Woodstock artist Robert Angeloch. Courses in Etching, Engraving and Color Printing, with emphasis on experimental techniques for both students and professionals, will be supervised by Barbara Neustadt (Mrs. Gunther Meyer) at the Studio Graphics Workshop in the art colony.

Artist Angeloch has studied with Fiske Boyd and at the Art Students League and the Academy of Fine Arts in Florence, Italy. Among his numerous awards and honors: the McDowell Traveling Scholarship; the Lowe, Kleinert and Woodstock Foundation Awards; prizes in four Albany Institute Annuals; others from Allied Artists and Woodstock Artists Associations and the Springfield Museum.

Now at Russell Sage

Angeloch has established a reputation as an instructor at the Art Students League, the Woodstock School of Art and, more recently, Russell Sage College in Troy. Currently, his paintings are the subject of a one-man show at that college's Schacht Fine Arts Center Gallery, running now through April 30.

Printmaker Barbara Neustadt studied at Smith College, University of Chicago, Ohio University School of Fine Arts and the Arts Students League, under a scholarship. Her work has been represented in major group exhibits since 1953 in museums and academies throughout the east and in exhibitions abroad.

Represented in the public collections of such prestigious showplaces as the Metropolitan Museum of Art, National Gallery of Art, Library of Congress and others, she has also been honored with one-man exhibitions on various occasions in New York City, Maine, Philadelphia and Woodstock.

Class Hours

Angeloch's Life Drawing class is slated for Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. His Landscape Painting class has been scheduled Thursdays at the same hours.

The Neustadt classes in Etching, Engraving and Color Printing will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 1 to 5 p.m., and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Studio Graphics Workshop.

TEMPO readers interested in further information on tuition and registration should write the Woodstock School of Art, P.O. Box 382, Woodstock, N.Y. 12498, or telephone either 679-2155 or 679-8334.

Is Your Boy or Girl A 'Yankee Doodle'??

While the rest of the nation was concentrating back in February on celebrating Lincoln's and Washington's birthday, the City of Philadelphia began setting its tourist sights on another historic birthday, the birth date of the nation—Independence Day.

The Freedom Week Committee, a Philly citizen's group, has launched its annual search among the 13 original colonies for its Yankee Doodle Dandies—boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 15 who were born on July 4. Each of the eligible youngsters can win an all expense paid trip to Philadelphia from July 1 to July 5 for himself and an adult chaperone by submitting an essay of not more than 300 words on the subject, "What My American Freedom Means to Me."

Treat's on Them

Winning youngsters are housed at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel and treated to a host of events including historic sight-seeing, theater-in-the-round at Valley Forge, and several patriotic birthday parties, the most memorable of which is the Independence Day observance at Independence Hall.

Because July 4 this year falls on a Sunday, Philadelphia will invite the Yankee Doodle Dandies to be the city's guests for an extra day so they can participate in the Independence Day celebration on Monday, July 5.

Boys and girls meeting the Yankee Doodle Dandy qualifications can obtain additional information about how they can participate by writing the Freedom Week Committee, 1660 Municipal Building, Philadelphia, Pa. 19107.

Freedom Week, the city's award-winning patriotic celebration, is celebrated annually from June 27 to July 4.

Folk Singing Beers Open Music Festivals

From here on out, Saturday night will be Music Festival night at the Woodstock Artists Association, where a new series of such offerings begins tonight, April 17, at 8 p.m. Outstanding groups and talented individual performers will be featured in the WAA Festivals.

Tonight's first concert stars Bob and Evelyn Beers, who were recently flown to Washington from an Alaskan tour to perform at the White House, then jetted back again to finish the northern tour after the invitation for a command performance by the President. The Beers have also toured for the U.S. State Department's cultural exchange program in South America and India, receiving critical praise in both places.

At their Woodstock concert tonight, they will sing the beautiful but controversial song, "Seasons of Peace," an anti-war ballad that was included on their program for the President at the White House.

Bob Beers plays the psaltery, an instrument known in biblical times that sounds like a harp and of which only about a dozen exist today in the U.S. The duo has recorded on the Columbia Masterworks series and for many other labels. They are also known widely for their "Fox Hollow" Festival, a yearly folk festival attracting folk musicians and audiences from all over the U.S. and held each summer at their home in Petersburg, N. Y., the former estate of "Legs Diamond" of gangster fame. This year's festival is slated from Aug. 5-8.

Tickets for the Beers' concert tonight at the Woodstock Art Gallery are $2 each and will be available at the door. Concertgoers will also have an opportunity to view the current "Welcome to Spring" art exhibit on the walls of the gallery. The second Music Festival in the series is set for April 24 with performers to be announced soon.

THE BEERS

'Born Free' Couple In 'Elephant' Tale

How often do you see a motion picture that's both educational and entertaining? One that you can recommend highly to your family or friends?

We encountered just such a movie this week in a special press showing. Previewed was a film titled "AN ELEPHANT CALLED SLOWLY," and we readily admit that seeing it was an enjoyable experience.

"Elephant" stars that BORN FREE couple — Virginia McKenna and Bill Travers. And they bring to this movie the same talent and charm they brought to their encounter with the lions.

"Elephant" impresses for the many species of wild life shown going about their way of life. Any audience will leave the theatre with the knowledge of elephant lore, as well as other jungle animals — some wild and some tame. And any audience will be impressed with how similar their way of life is to ours.

Excellent Children's Fare

This is one of the best children's films to come along in years. It has a built-in natural appeal for youngsters of all ages.

So plan now to make a family entertainment event a part of your calendar next weekend when "An Elephant Called Slowly" comes to Kingston. We're filling you in on its arrival a week in advance, since it will be presented at the Community Theatre here in Kingston for TWO MATINEE performances only on Saturday and Sunday, April 24 and 25.

It'll be a first run for the film locally, and we promise you'll love Slowly, the 900-lb. orphaned baby elephant who adopts the "Born Free" couple. You'll also be intrigued by Ugas, the famous "Born Free" one-eyed lion, and all of Slowly's friends — rhino, ostriches, cheetas, tigers and their marvelous adventures.

BILL TRAVERS and Virginia McKenna with their newly acquired friend in the excellent and exciting family fare picture, "AN ELEPHANT CALLED SLOWLY," which comes to the Community Theatre on Broadway here for matinees only Saturday and Sunday, April 24 and 25.

Where Mechanical Birds Sing From French Cages

The first green buds . . . The first robin you see. . . these are signs that spring has really arrived in New York State. And spring is the time to take up touring again.

If you're interested in unusual aspects of history, you might plan a trip to Deansboro, just 14 miles south of Utica. Deansboro is the location of Sanders Musical Museum.

The Museum offers visitors a delightful insight into the musical past. As an example, you'll see ornate bird cages made in France. The mechanical birds move realistically and seem to sing as the music box in the base plays. These cages were usually given to nobility as gifts for favors granted.

Try Your Talents

Less exotic, but just as much fun for the musically inclined, is the collection of antique pianos and organs that can actually be played. In one room there are eight old organs for visitors to try their talents on.

You've never seen a dulcimer? There's one at the Sanders Museum. You can also insert a nickel to listen to a recording on an earphone Edison phonograph, play a hurdy-gurdy, listen to airs on the ancestors of today's juke box. The Sanders Museum is open daily from 10 to 5. Admission is $1.50 for adults. Children under 10 are admitted free.

The New York State Office of State History says: exhibits such as those at the Sanders Musical Museum add more facets to the fun of exploring New York State.

MOVIES

Cromwell

"Cromwell" is a historical movie, based on the life of that "country gentleman, Puritan, passionate reformer, regicide and roundhead" about whom most movie-goers have only a rudimentary knowledge. For example, what this writer knew about him previously was the kind of knowledge acquired in schoolgirl days.

As it unreels currently, however, on the screen of the Orpheum in Saugerties, "Cromwell" is nothing like those historical movies that had to have Errol Flynn climbing up a balcony with a secret message in his boot. History is pretty much in today and while there is swashbuckling and fighting in this film, there is also emphasis on the fact that the British — because of Cromwell — established the first close approach to democracy in the Western world.

Richard Harris is excellent as the roundhead and Alec Guinness is perfection as Charles I in this straightforward, rich and rewarding film, glowing with period detail and honest historical facts. Indeed, both actors are superb — and so, too, is Timothy Dalton, a young actor cast in the relatively small role of Prince Rupert.

Everything about "Cromwell" seems to be striving for historical accuracy, and the scenes of high council and earnest debate in Parliament are fascinating — at least to this history buff.

Cold Turkey

The lightweight nonsense in "Cold Turkey," now showing at Kingston's Mayfair, makes it entertaining. With Dick Van Dyke in a major role, the film provides some genuinely funny moments. And, best of all, Bob and Ray — old favorites of ours — impersonate major newscasters . . . and Bob Newhart and the late Edward Everett Horton shine as a public relations man and a dour tycoon respectively.

Plot revolves around Eagle Rock, Iowa, a dying, drying town of 4,000, desperate for an economic shot in the arm and suffering financially since its World War II airbase closed. Newhart gets Horton to offer $25 million to the community that can give up smoking for 30 days, confident there'll be slews of publicity and no winner. But Eagle Rock, led by its young minister, signs up to go cold turkey — three-pack-a-day die-hards and all.

The result is a new kind of black comedy with a sting — painting Middle America as greedy but funny.

When Dinosaurs Ruled the Earth

Now showing at the Hyde Park Drive-In for a first time run in this area, "Dinosaurs" is a lot of idiotic nonsense, but should be fun for science-fiction fans. Supposedly based on scientific facts, it's the usual B.C. offering — stocked with flying, slithering prehistoric monsters, sun-gods, blonde cavegirls, etc.

One scene that broke us up: a blonde intended as a human sacrifice manages to escape and hide in a dinosaur egg. When next the sun comes up, a baby dino cracks his way out of a nearby egg, but his mom takes it for granted that the girl is her baby, too. The idea of a girl and a dinosaur growing up together sent our imagination running rampant. Far nuttier, for instance, than Tarzan and his apes or Romulus and Remus and their wolves.

"Dinosaurs" is silly, silly lunacy — but it's fun. And what's also fun at the Hyde Park is the fact that "HARPER," that great private eye tale starring Paul Newman, has been brought back for a rerun as the co-feature.

Other Choices

THE ARISTOCATS. Now playing at both Kingston's Community and Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-Ins is this totally delightful Walt Disney feature-length cartoon. Charming tale of a gorgeous mommy cat (voice by Eva Gabor) and her three kittens.

Kidnapped and abandoned outside of Paris by a mean, old butler, they eventually find their way home again with the help of a marvelous tomcat (voice by Phil Harris).

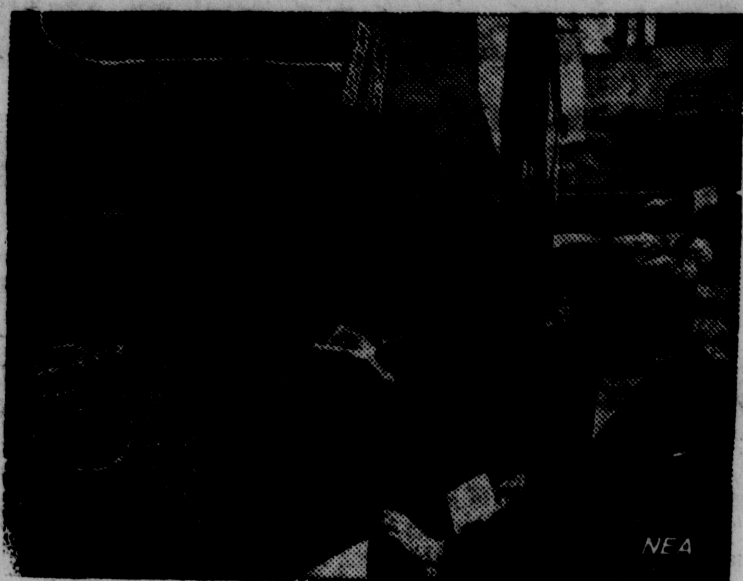

"Aristocats" has total appeal for youngsters and enough artistic excellence to intrigue adults, too. There's a bonus film, another fine Disney offering, at the Overlook. That would be "KING OF THE GRIZZLIES," a fascinating study of a mighty bear from birth to assumption of his kingship over the up country. Along the way, he tangles with a friendly Cree Indian and a not-so-friendly ranch owner.

THE OWL AND THE PUSSY-CAT. At Red Hook's Lyceum — for those who can take a little strong language and free love in stride — this sophisticated comedy. Barbara Streisand's delightful in a bravura performance as a brassy, mod miss who charms bookish intellectual George Segal. Sometimes slick and sometimes sentimental sex comedy.

TRASH. The first Andy Warhol movie to make its way north of Manhattan to our knowledge. Joe Dallesandro and transvestite Holly Woodlawn are more touching than one might imagine in this film about an impotent junkie and his roommate. Certainly not recommended for everyone, but in its raw, meandering way, it's an interesting and sickeningly accurate look at one segment of today's society.

MY FAIR LADY. Held over at Hyde Park's Roosevelt, this joyous musical that proves again it's as popular as ever in reissue. Audrey Hepburn is Eliza, the cockney flower-girl who becomes society's darling after tutoring in English and the social graces by Rex Harrison as Professor Henry Higgins. Fabulous songs, inspiring acting, and elegant costumes and sets from a more graceful and leisurely London. (Bq TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

KEN HUGHES, who wrote and directed the screenplay of "CROMWELL," works out plans for filming the Battle of Edgehill during production of the movie. The historical film is the current attraction at the Orpheum in Saugerties.

AUDREY HEPBURN is transformed from street urchin to society's darling in "My Fair Lady," the ever-popular musical back for a rerun currently at Hyde Park's Roosevelt.

DICK VAN DYKE provides much of the fun in "Cold Turkey," the movie now on screen at Kingston's Mayfair, and all about an entire town that gives up smoking cigarettes.

Historic New England Mill Added to Old Sturbridge

The Phoenix Mill, a typical small, stone factory building of the 1820's has been acquired by Old Sturbridge Village in near-by Sturbridge, Mass. as the cornerstone exhibit of a planned cotton manufacturing village museum, depicting life in a small manufacturing community of early 19th century New England.

Purchase of the building from Robert C. Darling of Phoenixville by the village was announced this week. The Phoenixville Mill, located in the village of Phoenixville in Eastford, Conn., is the first building acquired for the planned manufacturing village of the period 1790-1840, further committing the village to building the manufacturing complex. It will be developed on the recently purchased Morgan Tract adjoining the present village.

The mill village will eventually show a small rural cotton manufacturing complex of tenement houses, a company store and related buildings surrounding the mill itself. The preservation of the Phoenix Mill represents the first tangible step towards the early nineteenth-century manufacturing village museum, and gets underway plans for the village's long-range growth.

Rubble Stone Walls

Built in 1823, the two-story cotton mill was incorporated in 1831 into the Phoenix Manufacturing Company. The structure is made of rubble stone walls containing especially large stone lintels above the many doors and windows. The attic story was originally lighted by a row of short windows in the "trap-door" monitor roof.

Several years of compiling valuable information by members of the staff of the OSV

Research Department has led to this first major step. Work on the planning of the mill village was done by the Research Department.

Architectural investigation of the old cotton mill by Candee, researcher in architecture, has shown that the building was originally heated by stoves on each floor with chimneys in each end wall. The machinery was operated by waterpower from a water wheel once located in the basement and fed by a raceway which runs the length of the building.

Candee began the major study of mill-village planning and architecture several years ago. The objectives were to identify patterns in the geographical locations and physical layouts of a large number of early cotton manufacturing villages; to determine numbers and kinds of buildings in a typical community and to analyze significant architectural features and structural techniques. Other purposes were aimed at locating and studying buildings that were of potential interest to OSV and to encourage the on-site preservation of others that might be in danger of destruction. Besides working with census, tax and property records and other written sources, Candee has compiled an extensive file of pictures and early photographs of pre-1840 mill buildings and villages.

Machinery Reproduced

The operating OSV cotton mill will include machinery which will be reproduced on the basis of relatively few existing examples and invaluable information collected by Penn, researcher in technology. Penn is gleaning the material from company records, correspondence, diaries, and random jottings of mill agents and mechanics; patent drawings, manufacturers' handbooks and newspaper advertisements.

He is also writing a technological history of the New England cotton-textile industry up to 1840, and is gathering a study collection of cotton and machine-making machinery.

Parks, director of research and library, has been compiling data for brief histories of a number of cotton-manufacturing villages and is gathering biographical information on owners and agents.

The Phoenix Mill represents a typical stone mill of the 1820's in the three-state region of southern New England influenced by Rhode Island cotton manufacturing mills. It is unusual in the quantity of original materials surviving on the interior, left because it was not continually rehabilitated for industrial or commercial use in this century.

To Be Dismantled
Archaeological investigation of the power source and the adjoining site, will be carried out by OSV in the future to learn more of the mill's original operation and appearance before the building is moved to its new site in Sturbridge. The mill will be preserved at its present location until OSV is ready to dismantle and re-erect the stone structure on the Morgan Tract. OSV personnel have gained much experience in moving buildings through the development of the existing and popular with tourists village.

Further research is needed on many additional topics before the mill village is brought to fruition. Little is known as yet about the furnishings of mill houses. Study is needed on the owners and managers of the smaller mills, the labor forces they employed and on the working and living conditions and social institutions in mill communities. Work must also be done on possibly secondary industries, which tentatively include iron forging and founding, methods of developing and transmitting power.

Years of hard work go into machine making and chair manufacturing and also on pre-1840 the making of a museum and OSV has begun its second re-creation.

PLACES TO DINE & DANCE

POTPOURRI

By JOAN WOINOSKI
If you've never seen a workshop graduation of Lefooters Western Style Square Dance Club, you don't deserve a diploma.

At recent "commencement" in Hurley Reformed Church hall, first candidates eagerly burst forth to find themselves sharin' dark, gloomy jail cell with Lefooter alumnus, Luke Myer, enactin' role of "drunken bum." As bailiff Jack Fabiano announced couple's name, Sheriff Dick Gittings approached cell luggin' huge key. Couple—released from cell—proceed to Anna Fabiano for "mug shots," being careful not to let "drunken bum" escape. Sheriff then escorted them to two-headed judge, Hal Theis and Jim Wilson, to be tested for readiness for parole from prison of "workshop" to freedom of club-level, western-style square dancing. (Are you still with us . . . cross your heart??)

"Prisoners" (46 in all) passed with flyin' colors and continued on to court clerks, Bruce and Barbara Shove who, respectively, installed garter on lady's leg and bestowed "LF" towel and kiss to gent. Final lap of journey occurred when couples were led to club caller-teacher Don Blair and wife Renee who presented them with club badges and diplomas. (Four years of college may sound easier but we'll make book it's not half as much fun!)

More than 140 persons jammed Flamingo in Saugerties for prime ribs dinner Apr. 3 at annual dinner-dance of Town of Ulster Businessmen.

Not to be ignored at shindig were: Joe Cornelske of Ulster Automotive, president of group; Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Singer; Lou DiDonna; Mr. and Mrs. Len Cane; Julie and Frank Simpson; Town of Ulster Supervisor Carmine Sabino; the Frank Martins; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Callahan; the Rev. and Mrs. Robert A. Miller; Robert Regan, VP and toastmaster; chairman George Kirk; John Warren of CTA Public Relations Inc.; secretary Bette Maxson who presented annual report which included accomplishments of busy year and elaborate programs for future.

Ulster Shop City, located at spanking-new "Ulster Avenue Mall," is mushroomin' into quite a metropolis what with 200 businesses offerin' both variety and convenience. If USC can keep up friendly rapport, it'll be like a jolt of adrenalin to customers and businessmen alike.

Members' enthusiasm, willingness to unite to help with spring cleanup, beautification projects, improved traffic plans and enlistment of experts to map out broad campaigns, prove their joint response.

It's obvious that somethin's happenin'; it's a brand new identification of area, and customers are both aware and beholden!

It was "Scotch Doubles Night" at Sangi's Bowling Lanes one recent Saturday as Rotron Pioneer Women's Bowling League paired for partners co-ed style for once-a-year event. And one didn't pick his partner, nosireebob; he pulled name from hat.

Ten-pin buffs rolled four games with hi-n-low scratch and best form trophies presented. Copping awards were: Don Beadle, Lillian Rassini; George Rhymer, Gloria Sottile; Don Sickler, Dolores Manuel; Ned Duffy, Carol Sternmiller; Diana Koem, Edie Strickland, Don Beatty.

Bob VanWagner was chosen "most unorthodox," while Lou Jones and Kay Demski were named "best matched pair"—he's ski-hi at six-feet-five and she's knee-hi at less than five feet. Evidently thirstiest bowler was Jack Meyer who made most trips to lounge; he received tray with glasses glued to bottom. Tex Larabey made two special awards at 10-pin roundup and, as it was Scotch Doubles Night, Jane Crantz and Gary Strickland netted couple bottles of you-know-what.

Did Warren Court Bite Off Too Much for the Public?

EARL WARREN and the Supreme Court he headed are the subjects of a fascinating and recently published book reviewed on the left.

Books

Tender Christmas Tale

THE SELF-INFLICTED WOUND. By Fred P. Graham. Macmillan. $7.95.

Add Fred P. Graham, New York Times man at the Supreme Court, to the list of commentators, not all of them on the right, who believe the Warren court bit off more than the public could digest.

Like Alexander Bickel of Yale, Judge Henry Friendly of New York, Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and others who go along with the court, but only up to a point, Graham feels Earl Warren's now vanished liberal majority was too eager to read the constitution in absolutist terms.

This book trains considerable light on the Warren court's confessions, search, lineup and eavesdropping rulings and traces two judicial revolutions: the decline of the "fundamental fairness" approach, favored by Felix F. Frankfurter, and the flowering of a strict reading of the Bill of Rights, favored by Hugo Black and William Douglas; second, the one-by-one application of the Bill of Rights to the states.

In no sense is Graham's book pejorative. Gently, he opts for the view that the court should not try to square every procedural corner, especially when the public does not want it to,

but should play the role of constitutional teacher.

Now that Warren and Abe Fortas are gone, Warren E. Burger is chief justice and Richard M. Nixon sits in the White House, Graham is reasonably confident the court will be more restrained.

He warns, however, that when her institutions do not come forward to help police the police, there is an ominous void and the court must fill it. Besides, he says, "The Supreme Court cannot just get out of the business of shielding the individual from governmental police power. That is what the Bill of Rights—and the Supreme Court—is all about."

SCENE AT ROBERTO'S

Red-Face Department: How could I forget such a lovely party as the Bridal Shower for Miss Francine Gaffney, of Highland . . . especially when it was held on a week night (a Tuesday it was . . . and I'm the lad that keeps advising you to pick a week night for your party!) In addition to the hostess of the affair, Miss Tillie Bordin and Mrs. Janet Taylor, the guests were Mrs. Sanford Bernstein, Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Pat Bloomer, Highland; Mrs. Flo Canino, Highland; Mrs. Gene Choquette, Shokan; Mrs. Jean Cole, Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Lorraine Dunn, New Paltz; Mrs. Doris Evanoff, Highland; Mrs. Francis Gaffney, Highland; Mrs. Darlene Gill, Kingston; Mrs. Robert Hicks, New Paltz; Mrs. Margaret Keator, New Paltz; Mrs. George Kropp, Gardiner and Miss Virginia Vandemark, Newburgh. I'm glad I found my notes in time . . . because Miss Gaffney becomes the bride of Mr. Thomas Canino in St. Augustine's Church, Highland . . .

TODAY!  No sooner did I wax enthusiastic last Saturday about the Golden Wedding Party for Mr. and Mrs. Michael McGowan Sr., then along came Mr. and Mrs. Frances Myer, of Mount Marion to honor Mrs. Myer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Becht, of Skytop Apartments, on their Fifty-First Anniversary! (Now I'm wondering who'll be coming along with their Fifty-Second!) Miss Linda Myer and Miss Diana Coda (of Simmons Park) also helped the celebration. As Mr. Myer noted: "We did it at Roberto's because they always like to dine here." Hey . . . I hope they'll feel that way on their Diamond Anniversary!  A cozy family party was the Mr. and Mrs. Alton Connor's celebration of the Birthday of Mrs. Connor's mother, Mrs. Theresa Fitzgerald . . . "Grandma" to Edward Burns and Alton Connor, Jr. In addition to the Senior Connors, the other couples were Mr. and Mrs. Alton Connors, Jr., of Saugerties, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Burns, of Kingston.  The Anniversary of Al and Alice Pace was only the Twenty-Third, but they'll get there! And with them, I hope, will be their dinner companions, Mr. and Mrs. J. Campola and Mr. and Mrs. V. Reynaud; all the celebrants hail from Ulster Park.  Fred C. Wadnola treated his wife, Margaret, to a Birthday Dinner at Roberto's because, as he said: "You really Wine and Dine at Roberto's; and with a lot of nice people helping to enjoy the great entertainment, what more could you ask?" Who needs to write advertising copy when your patrons do it for you?  I've been so full of other remarks lately that I've sort of neglected the great gang of "regulars" who show up on Saturdays, not only to enjoy the food, but to join in the fun later in The Lounge . . . where our "Saturday Night Stock Company" keeps growing. Seems like every week we add a new talent to the cast. For instance, Chester and Marie Bliss, of Kingston dropped in to celebrate Chet's

"28th" Birthday. (That's what he says, folks!). And since Marie is a professional singer of note, you know how much chance she had of getting away without a few great numbers. And I mean great! We had plenty of other fine talent. Danny Callahan, of Hurley, "just happened to stop by and ran into Jack Turk, an old friend of 20 plus years; who entertained for Ed Shannon, along with my partner Rog." So he joined in the singing along with Jack Turk, Ed Shannon, Augie and his daughter Sharon, and Tony "Red" Amato, from Poppa Joe's . . . while Shirley sat in for Mark Garrison at the organ, and Sharon sat in for Tommy Fitzgerald at the drums. They've all promised to drop in some Friday nights too, now that Mark and Tommy are appearing here on Fridays also.  Naturally the dining room was filled with familiar faces who make the scene regularly: George and Martha, from the famed Park Diner; The Corcorans, Dempseys, Griggs, Henrys and Perrys . . . too, too many more to mention.  But I've simply got to find room for one of the most beautiful parties we've ever had the honor to serve . . . the Wedding Reception for Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Lane. The Bride was Miss Sharon E. Lowe, of Kingston; the Groom was Mr. Lawrence A. Lane, of Mt. Pleasant. The Party included the Matron of Honor, Mrs. Suzanne Campbell; the Best Man, Mr. Frank Ecker; the Mother of the Bride, Mrs. Harry F. Lowe; the Father of the Groom, Mr. Burton Lane; the Brother of the Bride, Mr. Harry Lowe; the Sister of the Groom, Miss Marion Lane; The Reverend and Mrs. Robert Schellenberger, and Mr. Kenneth Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cooney, Mrs. Frank Ecker, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lowe, Sr., Mrs. Virginia Mae Martalto, Mr. Jurgen Martins, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McAndrew, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meyer.  Now, if there's a smidgin' of space left, I'd like to advise all and sundry to make Friday one of your "Dining Out" nights at Roberto's. It's getting to be more and more fun . . . and we'll keep adding features until Friday Night runs Saturday a photo finish. You ought to be in that picture!

THE HOMECOMING.

By Earl Hamner Jr. Random. $4.95. Several years ago Hamner wrote a very appealing novel, "Spencer's Mountain," about a family of 10 living in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia.

It was warm and sentimental without being maudlin, tender and happy without being mushy.

The present short novel of 115 pages is a sequel to the earlier work and has the same cast of characters—Clay Spencer, his wife Olivia and their brood of eight red-haired children, the eldest of whom is Clay-Boy, 15.

The action takes place on Dec. 24 in one of the Depression years. Clay-Boy goes out to cut the Christmas tree and narrowly escapes being mauled by a buck deer. Then as evening comes on and father Clay does not arrive home on time, the mother sends Clay-Boy out into a snowstorm to find him.

The youngster's adventures involve some really offbeat characters, including a deer poacher; a determined sheriff who also is the game warden; a Negro congregation holding Christmas services, and two ancient spinsters who sell moonshine whiskey to anyone who comes along.

In this story, as in "Spencer's Mountain," Hamner has just the right homey touch. Here is a Christmas story that is a pleasure to read.

Miles A. Smith

Whether One Is Dove or Hawk . . .

War Without Heroes, by David Douglas Duncan.

(Harper & Row, $14.95) If "war is hell," the point is well made by David Douglas Duncan with 216 dramatic and emotional pictures of U.S. Marines who fought, were maimed or died in battles at Cuba Viet, Con Thien and Khe Sanh in 1967-68.

Duncan, a Marine photographic officer in World War II, and later a Life magazine camera man covering the Korean conflict and other wars around the world, became a front line soldier again to report how U.S. soldiers were fighting and dying in Vietnam. He brings a personal viewpoint into his photos and text because "I wanted to show what war does to a man . . . the way men live and die." He first wrote this in his book of Korean war pictures, "This Is War," published 19 years ago.

The photos are grim but excellent, printed on sheet-fed gravure to obtain the best reproduction quality.

Whether the reader is a dove or a hawk, the great photos and the author's short text make this a harsh, realistic portrayal of what war is like in Vietnam. This handsome, large format 250-page book, is being sold without profit to author or publisher as a public service.
